- Eine Problemdarstellung enthält lediglich vage Einschätzungen im Hinblick auf eine mögliche Binnenmarktverzerrung oder ein mögliches Versagen bei der Sicherstellung eines hohen Gesundheitsschutzniveaus aufgrund fehlender einheitlicher Bestimmungen für die Regulierung von nikotinhaltigen oder zigarettenähnlichen Produkten in den Mitgliedstaaten. Zudem vermeidet die Kommission jede Form der Wertung in Bezug auf das Subsidiaritäts- und Verhältnismäßigkeitprinzip. - Jede Form der Regulierung von Tabakerzeugnissen muss auf der Grundlage wissenschaftlicher Erkenntnisse sowie der zweifelsfrei gegebenen Rechtssetzungskompetenz der EU basieren. Dies gilt auch für mögliche Regulierungen oder gar Verbote für nikotinhaltige Produkte, die keinen Tabak enthalten oder zigarettenähnliche Produkte (Kräuterzigaretten). - Eine Einbeziehung von nikotinhaltigen Produkten oder zigarettenähnlichen Produkten in den Geltungsbereich der Richtlinie kann nicht allein aus der Begründung heraus erfolgen, dass diese Produkte neu sind nach der Auffassung der Kommission auch auf eine entsprechende Nachfrage in den einzelnen Märkten der EU 27 treffen. - Aus der Begründung heraus, dass diese Produkte bisher keiner wissenschaftlichen Bewertung (Unbedenklichkeitsprüfung) unterzogen wurden

- Der Konsum rauchloser Tabakerzeugnisse durch erwachsene und aufgeklärte Personen gefährdet weder die Gesundheit Dritter noch schränkt der Konsum dieser Produkte andere Personen in ihren Lebensgewohnheiten ein. Der Konsum dieser Produkte liegt in der Eigenverantwortung des Einzelnen. Das Bewerben und Verkaufen dieser Produkte muss daher möglich sein. - Das EU-weite Verbot von Snus (Ausnahme Schweden) stellt eine massive Entmündigung der Bürger dar. Denn die erwachsenen Verbraucher haben das Recht, auch bei Genussmitteln mit Gesundheitsrisiken die Wahl zu haben und eigenverantwortliche Entscheidungen zu treffen. - Aus der Problemdarstellung der Kommission lässt sich keine wissenschaftlich fundierte Grundlage ableiten, die ein EU-weites Verbot von Snus (Ausnahme Schweden) oder anderer Rauchloser Produkte rechtfertigen könnte. Beispielsweise vermissen wir in der Problemdarstellung wissenschaftlich fundierte Wirkungsanalyse aus Ländern, in denen Snus oder andere rauchlose Tabakerzeugnisse konsumiert werden.

- Es gibt keinen überzeugenden Beleg dafür, dass ein Warnhinweis umso wirksamer ist, je größer sein Format. - Es existiert bereits ein allgemeines Bewusstsein der Risiken des Rauchens. Ein Hinzufügen von Bildern auf den Warnhinweisen erhöht dieses Bewusstsein nicht – die Bilder wirken lediglich Überwiegend abstoßend ohne eine zusätzliche Information zu bieten. - Es wird pauschal unterstellt, dass die Einführung von Bildwarnhinweise auf das Rauchverhalten der Verbraucher einwirkt. Dafür werden allerdings keine Nachweise aus den Ländern zugeliefert, in denen Bildwarnhinweise bereits verpflichtend eingeführt wurden. - Eine Einheitspackung würde den Wesensgehalt des Markenrechts und damit auch die Interessen der Verbraucher verletzen. Eine Marke dient nämlich auch als Herkunftshinweis und ist somit ein unverzichtbares Element zur Wahrung der Entscheidungs- und Wahlfreiheit der Bürger. - Die Einführung von Einheitspackungen für Zigaretten wäre eine massive Entmündigung der Bürger. - Stichhaltige wissenschaftliche Nachweise, dass Tabakverpackungen und Produktmerkmale von Tabakerzeugnissen das Rauchverhalten von Verbrauchern beeinflussen/fördern, existieren nicht. - Über die Einführung von neutralen Verpackungen konzentriert sich der Wettbewerb verstärkt auf das Preis-Marketing. Sinkende Preise wären die Konsequenz. Dies ist in jeder Hinsicht (Jugend- und Gesundheitsschutz, Steuereinnahmen..) kontraproduktiv. - Durch die Umsetzung von neutralen Verpackungen wird Produktfälschern die Arbeit erleichtert und das Problem des Schmuggels weiter verschärft. Dies bedroht die Existenz des rein national tätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. - Die Kommission selbst hat im Rahmen der Tabak-Produkt-Richtlinie die Höchstgehalte an Teer, Nikotin und Kohlenmonoxid begrenzt. Das man nun daraus den Schluss zieht, dass Verbraucher aufgrund der niedrigeren Höchstgehalte den Konsum der Produkte als weniger riskant für ihre Gesundheit einstufen könnten, ist daher absurd.

- Ob die Behörden Schwierigkeiten bei Vergleich und Analysen der Daten haben oder die Erfassung und Analyse der gemeldeten Daten über Inhaltsstoffe erhebliche Ressourcen auf Seiten der zuständigen nationalen Behörden erfordern, wie von der Kommission dargestellt, kann nicht beurteilt werden. - - Wenn dies so wäre, verwundert es sehr, dass der Anstoß in Richtung einer Vereinheitlichung und Vereinfachung nicht aus den Mitgliedstaaten selbst hervorgeht, sondern von der Kommission vorgebracht wird und dann im Zusammenhang mit einer Option, die der Wirtschaft zusätzliche dauerhafte Kosten (jährliche Gebühr) auferlegen würde. - Die Mitgliedstaaten selbst sind gefordert, zusammen mit der Wirtschaft einen pragmatischen Weg zu diskutieren und umzusetzen. Einen notwendigen Handlungsbedarf der Kommission spiegelt die Problemdarstellung nicht wieder.

- Die Problemdarstellung ist keine sachgerechte, an wissenschaftlichen Prüfstrategien und Standards orientierte und am Maßstab der Verhältnismäßigkeit ausgerichtete Diskussionsgrundlage. - Der Begriff attraktiv ist ein subjektives Kriterium für eine Verbot oder eine Regulierung von Zusatzstoffen und entbehrt jeglicher wissenschaftlicher Grundlage. - Die Verbreitung des Rauchens in Ländern wie Großbritannien und Irland, in denen vorwiegend Zigaretten ohne Zusatzstoffe verkauft werden(Produkte des Virginia-Typs), ist nicht geringer als die Verbreitung in Ländern, in denen vorwiegend Zigaretten mit Zusatzstoffen (American-Blend-Produkte) verkauft werden. - Wettbewerbsrechtliche Auswirkungen einer einseitigen Regulierung von Produkten mit Zusatzstoffen werden nicht thematisiert. - Die Frage nach der Wirkung auf das Preisgefüge in den EU 27 Märkten sowie Effekte auf den illegalen Handel mit Tabakerzeugnissen werden nicht thematisiert.

which option

- Der Problembeschreibung stimme ich nicht zu. Die Bereiche „Verkauf von Tabakwaren über Zigarettenautomaten“ und „Mindestaltersgrenzen für den Bezug von Tabakwaren“ sind Themen, die eindeutig in den Zuständigkeitsbereich der Mitgliedstaaten fallen. - Die Problembeschreibung Zigarettenautomat ist überflüssig, da die Kommission selbst bereits bei ihrem Bericht aus dem Nov.09 zur Umsetzung der Ratsempfehlung 2003/54/EC festgehalten hat. - Insgesamt ist die Umsetzung der Empfehlung zufriedenstellend. - Dies betrifft insbesondere die Verpflichtung, das Mindestalter für den Kauf von Tabakwaren zu überprüfen, sowie die Durchführung von Maßnahmen zur Beschränkung der Verwendung von Automaten durch minderjährige Personen. Ein Handlungsbedarf wird daher nicht gegeben. - Weder ein Verbot des Verkaufs aus Automaten, noch die Untersagung der Auslage bzw. Sichtbarkeit von Zigaretten in Verkaufsstellen weisen einen grenzüberschreitenden Bezug auf. Für Automaten ergibt sich das schon daraus, dass deren Einzugsgebiet auf die unmittelbare Nachbarschaft zum Automaten beschränkt ist. - Selbst wenn von Mitgliedstaat zu Mitgliedstaat unterschiedliche Anforderungen an die Gestaltung der Automaten z.B. aus Gründen des Jugendschutzes den grenzüberschreitenden Handel mit den Automaten behindern, würde ein Verbot der Automatenaufstellung dem gemeinschaftsweiten Warenhandel mit Automaten die Grundlage entziehen, diesen also beeinträchtigen. - Die EU kann nur tätig werden, wenn sie die Kompetenz dazu hat – diese Kompetenz ist in den EU-Verträgen festgelegt. Ein Verweis darauf, dass bisher weder die Frage der begrenzten Einzelermächtigung, der Subsidiarität oder der Verhältnismäßigkeit in Bezug auf die einzelnen Maßnahmen oder Optionen hin geprüft wurde ist inakzeptabel. Die Problembeschreibung wird daher mangels fehlender juristischer Vorwertung der Kommission nicht mitgetragen. - Dass die Existenz von Zigarettenautomaten einen Einfluss auf das Rauchverhalten Jugendlicher hat, ist wissenschaftlich nicht nachgewiesen. In Ländern mit einem Automatenverbot fällt die Quote jugendlichen Raucher zum Teil deutlich höher aus als in den Ländern mit einer Automaten- Vertriebsstruktur. Pläne der Europäischen Kommission zur Abschaffung der Automaten schränken daher die Bezugsmöglichkeiten erwachsener Verbraucher ein, dienen dem Jugendschutz jedoch in keiner Weise. - Organisierte Kriminalität wird das Vakuum füllen, das entsteht, wenn legale Verkaufsstellen verschwinden. - Die Problembeschreibung verschweigt wesentliche Sachverhalte, die für die abschließende Bewertung der Bürgern von Wichtigkeit sein können - - Beispielhaft führe ich hier eine Stellungnahme der Deutschen Bundesregierung vom 01.04.2010 im Rahmen einer kleinen Anfrage der Fraktion Bündnis90/Die Grünen im Hinblick auf ein generelles Automatenverbot an: „Im Rahmen der Verhältnismäßigkeit sieht die Bundesregierung die bereits existierenden gesetzlichen Vorschriften und die in Vollzug dieser Vorschriften erfolgte Umsetzung der technischer Sicherung von Zigarettenautomaten durch Alterskontrolle per Geldkarte oder europäischem Führerschein als derzeit ausreichend und als die mildesten Mittel an, um das Abgabeverbot von Tabakwaren durch Automaten an Minderjährige wirksam zu regeln. - Eine Abschaffung der Automaten wird aus wettbewerbs- wie verfassungsrechtlichen Gründen als nicht durchsetzbar und darüber hinaus als unverhältnismäßig angesehen. Die Ziele des Jugend- und Gesundheitsschutzes sind durch andere, weniger einschneidende Maßnahmen wie die Altersverifikation an Automaten gleichermaßen erreichbar.“

questions scopeproblem definition

Yes

which option

Extend the scope of the Directive

recommend option

The Directive should cover electronic nicotine delivery systems (ENDS), such as electronic cigarettes and also cigarette-like products which do not contain tobacco, such as herbal cigarettes, that have similar harmful effects as regular cigarettes. There shouldn't be any difference. As well the risks of electronic cigarettes should be examined as they are advertised as a healthy alternative which allows you to use it where cigarettes are already banned.

additional comments

The most important thing would be to have a smoking ban at all indoor workplaces without any exceptions, also smoking ban in all restaurants, bars and clubs. The latter are the places where young people come first in contact with and get used to cigarettes. It is important to avoid people from second hand smoke.

questions smokelessproblem definition

Yes

which option

Lifting the ban on snus

additional option

Snus should be treated and available like other tobacco products. Although snus may have similar health risks as cigarettes they at least don't harm other people as there is no second hand smoke.

additional comments

Nevertheless the use of snus should be restricted, no additives, like sweet substances to make young people addicted easier, no snus for people under 18 years, no advertising.

questions consumerproblem definition

Yes

which option

Improve consumer information; Introduce generic or plain packaging

which improvement

Picture warnings to become mandatory; Tar, nicotine and carbon monoxide levels to be replaced with general information on harmful substances in tobacco products; Health warnings to be put on water pipes

additional option

There should be big picture warnings on all packages, but also, information on a telephone service to help quit smoking. Apart from that the packages should be plain allowing manufacturers just to print brand and product names, but no other advertising.

additional comments

It is important that all member states have the same packages and the same regulations.

questions on reportingproblem definition

Yes

which option

Establish a common compulsory reporting format; Introduce fees and sanctions additional options

It is important that there are the same regulations in all member states. All ingredients have to be reported and special ingredients to make young people more addictive should be forbidden.

regulation of ingredientsproblem definition

Yes

which option

Establish a common list of tobacco ingredients which one

Establish a positive common list of tobacco ingredients; Establish a negative common list of tobacco ingredients

additional option

It is important to have the same regulations in all Member States. Certain ingredients should be prohibited depending on their toxicity, the attractiveness and the addictiveness in all Member States.

access to tobacco productsproblem definition

Yes

which option

Ban

which one2

Cross-border retail sales of tobacco to be banned over the Internet; Vending machines to be banned; Promotion and displays in retail stores to be banned

additional option

Vending machines should be banned in all Member States. In Austria there are still vending machines around, and although they are restricted to people above 16 it is easy for children to get cigarettes from them. They just get the adult card from their parents and so they easily get the cigarettes. As well I think it is not a good idea that there are cigarettes available 24 hours a day. Food to buy is also not available 24 hours a day, why should cigarettes be? The cross-border sale of tobacco products (via the Internet) should be banned, as it is an easy way to avoid restrictions and taxes. As well it would be good if Cigarettes are not displayed in retail stores to prevent young people to make them more curious about cigarettes and to try them.

No scientific evidence concerning the risks related to smokeless tobacco products consumption.

questions consumerproblem definition

No

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

No change

additional comments

The knowledge of how harmful tobacco would be is already of a high level, also on the basis of the existing warnings; no value added by the increase of information; negative impact on the fulfilments of sector's operators and of tobacco retailers; full aversion to plain packaging because of the confusion on manufacturers identification brands, with a consequent proliferation of illegal trade of counterfeited as well as smuggled products.

questions on reportingproblem definition

Yes

which option

Establish a common compulsory reporting format

regulation of ingredientsproblem definition

No

explanations

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

which option

No Change

access to tobacco productsproblem definition

Yes

which option

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments

There is no evidence of the correlation between display ban and consumption bent. In other experiences – see Canada – important loss have been recorded for the tobacco retailers: structural reorganization of the shop, higher management costs and important reduction of the profitability with the consequent risk of giving up the business. Also increasing of illegal products sale (counterfeited and smuggled).

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

profitability with the consequent risk of giving up the business. Also increasing of illegal products sale (counterfeited and smuggled).

additional comments

problem definition

No

explanations

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

No change

additional comments

questions on reporting

problem definition

Yes

which option

Establish a common compulsory reporting format

regulation of ingredients

problem definition

No

explanations

problem definition

Yes

which option

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;

Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments

explanations

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

There is no evidence of the correlation between display ban and consumption bent. In other

non concordo che "l'evidenza mostra che, se adeguatamente dimensionato e ben collocate, le avvertenze illustrate costituiscono una misura efficace per informare il pubblico in merito ai pericoli del fumo" e che "maggiore è la dimensione dell'avvertenza illustrata, maggiore ne è l'efficacia". Talvolta le immagini illustrate introdotte in alcuni paesi per sostituire le avvertenze sanitarie scritte, più che informare il consumatore sembrano essere state introdotte per suscitare stupore e shock. non sembra questa la strada migliore per proteggere la salute dei consumatori, che già sono molto consapevoli dei pericoli e della dannosità delle sigarette. sono anche totalmente contrario all'introduzione del cosiddetto "pacchetto generino", che rischia di favorire il business delle organizzazioni criminali e di danneggiare le aziende serie che tradizionalmente forniscono solo società manifatturiere di altrettanta serietà ed operanti solo sul mercato legale, che si vedrebbero gravemente danneggiare per la distruzione del valore dei marchi. tra l'altro il "plain packaging" spingerebbe ad una concorrenza basata sul prezzo e non sulla qualità, così danneggiando il tabacco europeo che della qualità superiore ha l'unica arma possibile, ora che i sostegni diretti ai produttori, per compensarne i costi più altri, sono stati smantellati.

sono in totale disaccordo con l'ipotesi di vietare l'impiego di ingredienti nella produzione di sigarette. questa ipotesi finirebbe per avere serie conseguenze per le produzioni di "Burley", in Italia e in tutta Europa. questa qualità di tabacco, utilizzata principalmente per il cosiddetto "American Blend", rispetto ad altre varietà di tabacco, necessita di un certo numero di ingredienti in fase di lavorazione. d'altra parte, come chiarito anche dall'OMS e dallo SCENIHR non esiste alcuna prova scientifica del fatto che le sigarette realizzate senza ingredienti (come quelle che utilizzano la varietà di tabacco "Virginia") siano meno dannose di quelle che necessitano di ingredienti. questa, pertanto, appare una chiara discriminazione, che avrebbe il solo effetto di pregiudicare significativamente gli oltre 60.000 addetti alla coltivazione di tabacco in Italia e circa 400.000 in tutta Europa.

le enunciazioni del documento di consultazione, in realtà non definiscono il problema ma fotografano unicamente il quadro normativo di riferimento, seppure in modo parziale. sono infatti elencati nel documento solo i paesi in cui esistono misure estreme per regolamentare l'accesso ai prodotti: paesi, ad esempio, in cui i distributori automatici sono vietati o dove è vietata l'esposizione dei prodotti nei punti vendita. ritengo che non si debba arrivare tanto lontano per ottenere gli obiettivi prefissati di salvaguardia dei minori. il sistema italiano di monopolio e di controlli sull'accesso, se applicato con determinazione e con le giuste risorse a disposizione degli organismi di controllo, costituisce un'ottima soluzione per limitare l'accesso dei minori al tabacco.

non concordo che "l'evidenza mostra che, se adeguatamente dimensionato e ben collocate, le avvertenze illustrate costituiscono una misura efficace per informare il pubblico in merito ai pericoli del fumo" e che "maggiore è la dimensione dell'avvertenza illustrata, maggiore ne è l'efficacia". Talvolta le immagini illustrate introdotte in alcuni paesi per sostituire le avvertenze sanitarie scritte, più che informare il consumatore sembrano essere state introdotte per suscitare stupore e shock. non sembra questa la strada migliore per proteggere la salute dei consumatori, che già sono molto consapevoli dei pericoli e della dannosità delle sigarette. sono anche totalmente contrario all'introduzione del cosiddetto "pacchetto generino", che rischia di favorire il business delle organizzazioni criminali e di danneggiare le aziende serie che tradizionalmente forniscono solo società manifatturiere di altrettanta serietà ed operanti solo sul mercato legale, che si vedrebbero gravemente danneggiare per la distruzione del valore dei marchi. tra l'altro il "plain packaging" spingerebbe ad una concorrenza basata sul prezzo e non sulla qualità, così danneggiando il tabacco europeo che della qualità superiore ha l'unica arma possibile, ora che i sostegni diretti ai produttori, per compensarne i costi più altri, sono stati smantellati.

sono in totale disaccordo con l'ipotesi di vietare l'impiego di ingredienti nella produzione di sigarette. questa ipotesi finirebbe per avere serie conseguenze per le produzioni di "Burley", in Italia e in tutta Europa. questa qualità di tabacco, utilizzata principalmente per il cosiddetto "American Blend", rispetto ad altre varietà di tabacco, necessita di un certo numero di ingredienti in fase di lavorazione. d'altra parte, come chiarito anche dall'OMS e dallo SCENIHR non esiste alcuna prova scientifica del fatto che le sigarette realizzate senza ingredienti (come quelle che utilizzano la varietà di tabacco "Virginia") siano meno dannose di quelle che necessitano di ingredienti. questa, pertanto, appare una chiara discriminazione, che avrebbe il solo effetto di pregiudicare significativamente gli oltre 60.000 addetti alla coltivazione di tabacco in Italia e circa 400.000 in tutta Europa.

le enunciazioni del documento di consultazione, in realtà non definiscono il problema ma fotografano unicamente il quadro normativo di riferimento, seppure in modo parziale. sono infatti elencati nel documento solo i paesi in cui esistono misure estreme per regolamentare l'accesso ai prodotti: paesi, ad esempio, in cui i distributori automatici sono vietati o dove è vietata l'esposizione dei prodotti nei punti vendita. ritengo che non si debba arrivare tanto lontano per ottenere gli obiettivi prefissati di salvaguardia dei minori. il sistema italiano di monopolio e di controlli sull'accesso, se applicato con determinazione e con le giuste risorse a disposizione degli organismi di controllo, costituisce un'ottima soluzione per limitare l'accesso dei minori al tabacco.

There is no evidence of the correlation between display ban and consumption bent. Extend the scope of the Directive

recommend option

Es besteht meiner Meinung nach kein Zweifel, daß nikotinhaltige Produkte in irgendeiner Form reguliert werden müssen. Jedoch wäre es meines Erachtens nach sinnvoll, für jene Produkte, die nicht auf dem Verbrennen von Tabak oder anderem Pflanzenmaterial beruhen, eine eigene Richtlinie zu schaffen, und die jetzige Richtlinie nur auf solche zur Verbrennung gedachten Produkte zu beziehen. Denn es ist offensichtlich, daß die allergrößte Gefahr beim Tabakkonsum von den Verbrennungsprodukten wie Feinstaub, Teer und Kohlenmonoxyd ausgeht. Bei jenen Produkten, die ohne Verbrennung auskommen, wird im Allgemeinen ein Risiko von maximal 1-2% des Risikos von Verbrennungsprodukten geschätzt. Dies wird durch die Zusammenfassung beider völlig unterschiedlicher Produktgruppen gerne übersehen. Die EU sollte dies jedoch betonen, und die Nutzung von Produkten mit wesentlich geringerem Risiko daher unterstützen. Auch durch getrennte Richtlinien für tödliche Produkte und solche, die eventuell einmal Gesundheitsschäden verursachen können, jedoch nicht mehr, als es viele völlig legitime Genuß- und Lebensmittel auf dem Markt tun.

additional comments

Ich selbst bin vor einem Jahr auf elektronische Rauchgeräte umgestiegen. Ursprünglich hoffte ich lediglich, meinen Zigarettenkonsum von etwa 40 Zigaretten täglich auf vielleicht 10-15 reduzieren zu können. Binnen 2 Tagen war ich rauchfrei. Nach 29 Jahren Rauchen. Und das problemlos. Versuche, mit Nikotinkaugummies, Entzug nach Narkose, sowie diversen rauchfreien Tabakerzeugnissen, auch nur meinen Konsum zu reduzieren, scheiterten jedesmal. Meine Gesundheit hat sich seit dem Umstieg, wenig überraschend, sehr verbessert. Kein Husten mehr, keine Atemnot bei der kleinsten Anstrengung, keine Migräne, mein Blutdruck fiel um gewaltige 40 Punkte. Nebenbei stinke ich nicht mehr wie die Beulenpest, und meine Wohnung wird auch nicht mehr zugeteert. Neben dem Dampfen konsumiere ich noch – wenig – Snus, denn Tabak enthält eben noch mehr psychoaktive Stoffe als Nikotin. Würden mir diese Alternativen genommen, bliebe mir nur, zur stinkenden und gefährlichen Zigarette zurückzukehren, denn ohne geht gar nicht. Und wie mir etwa Antidepressiva (die auch nicht grade preiswert sind, nur so nebenbei) helfen würden, ist absehbar – gar nicht. Grundsätzlich wäre es völlig inakzeptabel, und ein tausendfacher Mord via Gesetz, wenn wesentlich weniger gefährliche Alternativen zu Verbrennungsprodukten verboten würden oder so reguliert, daß es einem Verbot gleichkommt. Denn die Leute würden nicht aufhören, ihr Nikotin und andere Wirkstoffe zu konsumieren – sie würden es nur auf eine bekannt tödliche Weise tun. Nichtsdestotrotz besteht ein gewisser Regulierungsbedarf. Es ist schon schwierig, überhaupt Liquids für Dampfer zu bekommen, die etwa dem Lebensmittelrecht entsprechen, was in so manchem chinesisches Billig-Liquid ist, möchte man vermutlich so genau gar nicht wissen. Liquid, welches einer vernünftigen (!) Richtlinie entsprechen würde, würde weithin begrüßt werden. Ähnliches gilt für die Technik der Geräte. Zwar sind mir keine größeren Unfälle o.ä. bekannt, jedoch wäre auch da – wie bei vielen Waren grade aus China – eine gewisse Sicherheit äußerst begrüßenswert.

Es gibt hinreichend Untersuchungen, grade für Snus (und diese dürften zu einem beträchtlichen Teil auch für andere rauchlose Tabakerzeugnisse gelten), welche hinreichend belegen, daß der Konsum von Snus kaum Schäden verursacht, jedoch eine echte Alternative zum Zigarettenkonsum ist. Schweden hat nicht umsonst etwa die niedrigste Rate von Lungenkrebs bei Männern. Es gibt keinerlei Hinweise, daß, wie behauptet, Snus zu häufigerem Konsum von Zigaretten führt – es gibt ganz im Gegenteil Untersuchungen, die bezeugen, daß Snus-Konsumenten seltener anfangen zu rauchen. Wer versucht, Snus oder rauchlosen Tabak zu verbieten, treibt die Menschen zurück zur Zigarette – und ist damit mitverantwortlich für den Tod tausender Menschen pro Jahr. Alleine die Tatsache, daß es gesündere Sachen gibt, ist nun wirklich kein Argument – mit diesem Argument müßten etwa auch alle Süßwaren, viele Fette usw. verboten werden.

Ich denke nicht, daß solche Bilder irgend jemanden abschrecken würden (und es gibt Untersuchungen, die zu dem gleichen Schluß kommen), und es wäre den Konsumenten wohl auch egal, wie die Tabakerzeugnisse verpackt wären. Jedoch würde eine solche Regelung maximal diskriminierend wirken. Verpackungen sind kaum reguliert, und grade etwa Alkoholverpackungen, und Alkohol ist kaum harmlos, sind nun wirklich häufig als die reine Werbung zu betrachten. Nur Tabakkonsumenten werden auf diese Weise diskriminiert, so daß sie noch mehr als bisher als gemeingefährliche Idioten dargestellt werden, die mit jedem Kauf auf ihren Status als Untermenschen hingewiesen werden. Und noch viel mehr werden dann jene fanatischen Anti-Raucher ermutigt, die heute schon jeden Tabakkonsumenten wie einen Aussätzigen behandeln; etwas, das die EU nun wirklich nicht auch noch unterstützen sollte, auch wenn sich die Pharmaindustrie noch so viel Gewinn davon verspricht.

Es ist absurd, kategorisch zu behaupten, der größte Teil der Zusatzstoffe wäre gefährlich, wenn die meisten dieser Zusatzstoffe nicht einmal untersucht sind.

Man kann kaum dagegen sein – und ich bin es auch nicht – wirklich gefährliche Zusatzstoffe zu verbieten. Allerdings sollten dann auch tunlichst bitte nur jene Zusatzstoffe verboten werden, die tatsächlich gefährlich sind. Und nicht diese Liste in rein erzieherischer Absicht erweitert werden, oder weil grade irgendwo Wahlen anstehen und man sich als Politiker so wichtig machen kann. Legitime Grundlage einer solchen Liste können nur erwiesene Tatsachen sein.

Grade die wesentlich weniger gefährlichen Produkte wie Dampfer oder rauchloser Tabak sind vor Ort oftmals nicht erhältlich. Würde der Vertrieb via Internet und Post verboten, blieben den meisten Konsumenten als Alternativen nur die überall erhältlichen Zigaretten. Eine solche Regelung wäre also direkt verantwortlich für den Tod Tausender. Wer solche Vorschläge überhaupt macht, muß sich schon fragen lassen, ob er so etwas nicht überblicken kann – in dem Falle hat er wohl den falschen Job – oder ob er so etwas billigend in Kauf nimmt, denn die Anti-Raucher-Kampagnen haben ja ohnehin schon dazu geführt, daß Raucher und meist alle Tabakkonsumenten als minderwertige Menschen wahrgenommen werden. Da scheint es einigen ganz recht zu sein, ihnen den Zugang zu weniger gefährlichen Alternativen gleich möglichst schwierig zu machen, dann löst sich das Problem vielleicht irgendwann selber – durch den völlig unnötigen frühen Tod der Raucher. Wie man eine solche Politik allerdings mit dem Recht auf Leben und Gesundheit vereinbaren kann, nun, das muß mir nochmal jemand erklären; das habe ich noch nicht so genau verstanden.

Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments

additional comments

questions on reporting

Yes

which option

Establish a common compulsory reporting format

regulation of ingredients

problem definition

No

explanations

problem definition

Yes

which option

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments

additional comments

regulation of ingredientsproblem definition

No

explanations

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments

additional comments

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

Non si può sostenere che gli ingredienti non sono aggiunti al tabacco per rendere le sigarette più attraenti. Cacao, liquirizia, vaniglia, diversi tipi di zuccheri aggiunti alle sigarette non fanno sì che il prodotto finale abbia un gusto caratteristico appunto al cacao, liquirizia, vaniglia. L'aggiunta di ingredienti è necessaria, in particolare, a determinati tipi di tabacco, il tabacco Burley, che per sua caratteristica non può farne a meno. Vietare l'uso degli ingredienti non renderà le sigarette più sicure, perchè continueranno ad esistere le sigarette senza ingredienti, le cosiddette "Virginia", che oggi sono scelta da quasi la metà dei fumatori mondiali.

E' assolutamente ingiusto e anticoncorrenziale vietare la visibilità dei prodotti al punto di vendita, specie se si considera che la comunicazione al consumatore nel settore del tabacco è già molto limitata. Altrettanto ingiusto è il divieto di vendita tramite distributore automatico. In realtà, il sistema italiano fornisce già importanti garanzie di comunicazione e accesso controllati: potrebbe essere preso a modello per migliorare la vendita al dettaglio dei prodotti di tabacco.

comments

No scientific evidence concerning the risks related to smokeless tobacco products consumption.

which option

Lifting the ban on snus

questions consumerproblem definition

No

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

No change

additional comments

questions on reportingproblem definition

Yes

which option

Establish a common compulsory reporting format

regulation of ingredientsproblem definition

No

explanations

which option

No Change

access to tobacco productsproblem definition

Yes

which option

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

explanations

additional comments

I believe that any product ban should be based on scientific evidences, same for any regulation in general. Ban is the ultimate measure and should be avoided.

There is no evidence that bigger warnings will be more effective in informing consumers; everybody knows that smoking is dangerous, generic packaging will just make more difficult to identified genuine product from counterfeit and thus increase illicit trade.

explanations

There is clearly no evidence that product display or vending machine bans would have any positive impact in reducing smoking among both adults or kids. I even believe that by hiding the product and restricting access to it, it might have the opposite effect and make smoking being perceived as "cool". It's not by banning that we will achieve anything in terms of health objectives.

problem definition
No

explanations
No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option
No change

additional comments

questions on reporting
problem definition
Yes

which option
Establish a common compulsory reporting format

regulation of ingredients
problem definition

No

explanations

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

Yes

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments

There is no evidence of the correlation between display ban and consumption bent. In other experiences – see Canada – important loss have been recorded for the tobacco retailers: structural reorganization of the shop, higher management costs and important reduction of the profitability with the consequent risk of giving up the business. Also increasing of illegal products sale (counterfeited and smuggled).

additional comments

additional comments

No scientific evidence concerning the risks related to smokeless tobacco products consumption.

which option

Lifting the ban on snus

questions consumerproblem definition

No

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

No change

additional comments

questions on reporting

problem definition

Yes

which option

Establish a common compulsory reporting format

regulation of ingredientsproblem definition

No

explanations

which option

No Change

access to tobacco productsproblem definition

Yes

which option

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments

problem definition

No

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

No change

additional comments

questions on reporting
problem definition

Yes

which option

Establish a common compulsory reporting format

regulation of ingredients
problem definition

No

explanations

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments

No scientific evidence concerning the risks related to smokeless tobacco products consumption.

which option

Lifting the ban on snus

questions consumer

problem definition

No

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

No change

additional comments

questions on reporting

problem definition

Yes

which option

Establish a common compulsory reporting format

regulation of ingredients

problem definition

No

explanations

which option

No Change

access to tobacco products

problem definition

Yes

which option

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments

Lifting the ban on snus

questions consumer
problem definition

No

explanations

There is no evidence that the bigger warnings will reduce smoking in vulnerable groups. Also that plain packaging will reduce smoking. Plain packaging will stimulate the production and sale of counterfeit cigarettes, without proper quality control, which will increase even further the health risks. Currently I link the pack appearance and the branding with quality and believe the manufacturer is passing me important message for the quality of the product. If all packs are the same, the value of the brand will be gone as well and the cigarettes prices will go down, which will probably lead to more mass consumption. On contrary, cigarettes should be banded and expensive.

which option

No change

questions on reporting
problem definition

No

explanations

At present, as far as I am informed, member states can introduce independently fees and sanctions. Enforcements of the provisions of the directive should remain the responsibility of the member states. Common reporting format would be beneficial, but the argument that smaller manufacturers are having heavier burden and difficulties complying with the reporting requirements is not serious. We are talking about cigarettes, and whoever is producing cigarettes should be able to comply with the reporting requirements. Authorities need to analyze the ingredients, not to compare them or different products.

which option

Establish a common compulsory reporting format

regulation of ingredients
problem definition

No

explanations

The focus of ingredients testing should be on whether the ingredients result in increased toxicity of tobacco smoke. Attractiveness of ingredients can not be measured and therefore ingredients can not be banned or listed because of attractiveness. Ingredients should be banned only as a result of scientific proof, not based on perception.

which option

No Change

access to tobacco products
problem definition

No

explanations

There is no clear definition of the problem, both regarding vending machines or product display at points of sale. There is no evidence provided that such bans would advance any public health objectives. Internet sale has no direct link with tax revenues or age verification. Internet allows age control and it works effectively on many other internet sites.

Wir sind mündige Bürger, welche sehr gut selbst entscheiden können, was wir kaufen wollen. Dazu benötigen wir aber Hinweise, was in den Verpackungen ist. Wie vorab bereits erwähnt. Ich kaufe ein Auto nicht nur weil es vier Reifen hat, es hat auch mit meiner Lebensart etwas zu tun. Und das möchte ich gerne selbst entscheiden, wie ich mein Leben führe. Auch zuviel Arbeit ist nicht gesund ... z.B. Bourn-out, Depression, etc.. Warum steht beim betreten der Firma nicht am Eingang ... "Vorsicht, Arbeit kann tödlich sein"? Und warum ist nicht jede Firma gleich und jeder Job unterschiedlich. Weil wir uns unterschiedlich entwickeln und uns über unterschiedlich Nutzung von Produkten identifizieren. Und das möchte ich auch weiterhin.

The knowledge of how harmful tobacco would be is already of a high level, also on the basis of the existing warnings; no value added by the increase of information; negative impact on the fulfilments of sector's operators and of tobacco retailers; full aversion to plain packaging because of the confusion on manufacturers identification brands, with a consequent proliferation of illegal trade of counterfeited as well as smuggled products.

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

additional comments

additional comments

additional comments

Non concordo che "l'evidenza mostra che, se adeguatamente dimensionate e ben collocate, le avvertenze illustrate costituiscono una misura efficace per informare il pubblico in merito ai pericoli del fumo" e che "maggiore è la dimensione dell'avvertenza illustrata, maggiore ne è l'efficacia". Talvolta le immagini illustrate introdotte in alcuni paesi per sostituire le avvertenze sanitarie scritte, più che informare il consumatore sembrano essere state introdotte per suscitare stupore e shock. Non sembra questa la strada migliore per proteggere la salute dei consumatori, che già sono molto consapevoli dei pericoli e della dannosità delle sigarette. Sono anche totalmente contrari all'introduzione del cosiddetto "pacchetto generico", che rischia di favorire il business delle organizzazioni criminali e di danneggiare le aziende serie che tradizionalmente forniscono solo società manifatturiere di altrettanta serietà ed operanti solo sul mercato legale, che si vedrebbero gravemente danneggiate per la distruzione del valore dei marchi. Tra l'altro il "plain packaging" spingerebbe ad una concorrenza basata sul prezzo e non sulla qualità, così danneggiando il tabacco europeo che della qualità superiore ha l'unica arma possibile, ora che i sostegni diretti ai produttori, per compensarne i costi più alti, sono stati smantellati.

Sono d'accordo sulla creazione di un formato comune di reporting ma non concordo con la creazione di un nuovo livello di imposizione fiscale che andrebbe a sovrapporsi a quello dello stato membro, creando confusione e andando contro i principi di uniformità dell'Unione.

Sono in totale disaccordo con l'ipotesi di vietare l'impiego di ingredienti nella produzione di sigarette. Questa ipotesi finirebbe per avere serie conseguenze per le produzioni di "Burley", in Italia e in tutta Europa. Questa qualità di tabacco, utilizzata principalmente per il cosiddetto "American blend", rispetto ad altre varietà di tabacco, necessita di un certo numero di ingredienti in fase di lavorazione. D'altra parte, come chiarito anche dall'OMS e dallo SCENIHR non esiste alcuna prova scientifica del fatto che le sigarette realizzate senza ingredienti (come quelle che utilizzano la varietà di tabacco "Virginia") siano meno dannose di quelle che necessitano di ingredienti. Questa, pertanto, appare una chiara discriminazione, che avrebbe il solo effetto di pregiudicare significativamente gli oltre 60.000 addetti alla coltivazione di tabacco in Italia e circa 400.000 in tutta Europa.

Le enunciazioni del documento di consultazione, in realtà non definiscono il problema, ma fotografano unicamente il quadro normativo di riferimento, seppure in modo parziale. Sono infatti elencati nel documento solo i paesi in cui esistono misure estreme per regolamentare l'accesso ai prodotti: paesi, ad esempio, in cui i distributori automatici sono vietati o dove è vietata l'esposizione dei prodotti nei punti vendita. Ritengo che non si debba arrivare tanto lontano per ottenere gli obiettivi prefissati di salvaguardia dei minori. Il sistema italiano di monopolio e di controlli sull'accesso, se applicato con determinazione e con le giuste risorse a disposizione degli organismi di controllo, costituisce un'ottima soluzione per limitare l'accesso dei minori al tabacco.

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

additional comments

Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments

additional comments

regulation of ingredientsproblem definition

No

explanations

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments

profitability with the consequent risk of giving up the business. Also increasing of illegal products sale (counterfeited and smuggled).

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments

additional comments

The knowledge of how harmful tobacco would be is already of a high level, also on the basis of the existing warnings; no value added by the increase of information; negative impact on the fulfilments of sector's operators and of tobacco retailers; full aversion to plain packaging because of the confusion on manufacturers identification brands, with a consequent proliferation of illegal trade of counterfeited as well as smuggled products.

questions on reporting

Yes

which option

Establish a common compulsory reporting format

regulation of ingredients

problem definition

No

explanations

Yes

which option

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments

explanations

Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments

explanations

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments

The knowledge of how harmful tobacco would be is already of a high level, also on the basis of the existing warnings; no value added by the increase of information; negative impact on the fulfilments of sector's operators and of tobacco retailers; full aversion to plain packaging because of the confusion on manufacturers identification brands, with a consequent proliferation of illegal trade of counterfeited as well as smuggled products.

explanations

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

additional comments

No

comments

No scientific evidence concerning the risks related to smokeless tobacco products consumption.

which option

Lifting the ban on snus

questions consumerproblem definition

No

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

No change

additional comments

questions on reportingproblem definition

Yes

which option

Establish a common compulsory reporting format

regulation of ingredientsproblem definition

No

explanations

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

which option

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments

Es gibt unseres Erachtens keine wissenschaftlichen Beweise dafür, dass größere Warnhinweise oder Bilder besser dazu geeignet sind, potenzielle Raucher vom Rauchen abzuhalten bzw. Raucher davon zu überzeugen, mit dem Rauchen aufzuhören. Auch bei Plain Packaging gibt es bis dato keine Beweise dafür, dass sie eine Auswirkung der Gesundheit der Bevölkerung haben. Plain Packaging würde vielmehr Fälschungen und den illegalen Handel mit Tabakprodukten forcieren, weil die Fälschungssicherheit der Produkte nicht gewährleistet werden kann.

Zur besseren Kennzeichnung der Inhaltsstoffe könnte man z.B. Zahlen verwenden, die mit Hilfe eines anderen Messverfahrens (zB Health-Canada-Messverfahren) ermittelt wurden. Dadurch würden die Verbraucher präzisere Informationen über die Messwerte bekommen.

Die Rechtsdurchsetzung ist Angelegenheit der Mitgliedsstaaten und nicht der EU. Auch wenn die EU dieses Prinzip einführt, würden die Beträge für Gebühren und Sanktionen zwischen den Mitgliedsstaaten unterschiedlich ausfallen. Dies deshalb, da es in die Kompetenz des jeweiligen Staates fällt. Eine Verbesserung des Funktionierens des Binnenmarktes ist somit auf diese Weise nicht ersichtlich.

Der Fokus bei der Evaluierung von Zusatzstoffen sollte ganz grundsätzlich darauf ausgerichtet sein, ob deren Einsatz die toxische Wirkung des Zigarettenrauches erhöht. questions consumerproblem definition

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

No change

additional comments

The knowledge of how harmful tobacco would be is already of a high level, also on the basis of the existing warnings; no value added by the increase of information; negative impact on the fulfilments of sector's operators and of tobacco retailers; full aversion to plain packaging because of the confusion on manufacturers identification brands, with a consequent proliferation of illegal trade of counterfeited as well as smuggled products.

questions on reporting

problem definition

Yes

which option

Establish a common compulsory reporting format

regulation of ingredients

problem definition

No

explanations

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments

additional comments

regulation of ingredients

problem definition

No

explanations

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

additional comments

There is no evidence of the correlation between display ban and consumption bent. Die Rechtsdurchsetzung ist Angelegenheit der Mitgliedsstaaten und nicht der EU. Auch wenn die EU dieses Prinzip einführt, würden die Beträge für Gebühren und Sanktionen zwischen den Mitgliedsstaaten unterschiedlich ausfallen. Law enforcement is the Member States' duty and not the EU's. Even if the EU introduces this principle, fee and penalty rates would differ among the Member States. This is because it is each country's responsibility. An improvement of the internal market's functioning is thus not obvious.

No scientific evidence concerning the risks related to smokeless tobacco products consumption.

questions consumerproblem definition

No

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

No change

additional comments

questions on reporting

problem definition

Yes

which option

Establish a common compulsory reporting format

regulation of ingredientsproblem definition

No

explanations

access to tobacco productsproblem definition

Yes

which option

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments

Es gibt unseres Erachtens keine wissenschaftlichen Beweise dafür, dass größere Warnhinweise oder Bilder besser dazu geeignet sind, potenzielle Raucher vom Rauchen abzuhalten bzw. Raucher davon zu überzeugen, mit dem Rauchen aufzuhören. Auch bei Plain Packaging gibt es bis dato keine Beweise dafür, dass sie eine Auswirkung der Gesundheit der Bevölkerung haben. Plain Packaging würde vielmehr Fälschungen und den illegalen Handel mit Tabakprodukten forcieren, weil die Fälschungssicherheit der Produkte nicht gewährleistet werden kann.

Die Rechtsdurchsetzung ist Angelegenheit der Mitgliedsstaaten und nicht der EU. Auch wenn die EU dieses Prinzip einführt, würden die Beträge für Gebühren und Sanktionen zwischen den Mitgliedsstaaten unterschiedlich ausfallen. Der Fokus bei der Evaluierung von Zusatzstoffen sollte ganz grundsätzlich darauf ausgerichtet sein, ob deren Einsatz die toxische Wirkung des Zigarettenrauches erhöht. It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments

Es gibt unseres Erachtens keine wissenschaftlichen Beweise dafür, dass größere Warnhinweise oder Bilder besser dazu geeignet sind, potenzielle Raucher vom Rauchen abzuhalten bzw. Raucher davon zu überzeugen, mit dem Rauchen aufzuhören. Auch bei Plain Packaging gibt es bis dato keine Beweise dafür, dass sie eine Auswirkung der Gesundheit der Bevölkerung haben. Plain Packaging würde vielmehr Fälschungen und den illegalen Handel mit Tabakprodukten forcieren, weil die Fälschungssicherheit der Produkte nicht gewährleistet werden kann.

Zur besseren Kennzeichnung der Inhaltsstoffe könnte man z.B. Zahlen verwenden, die mit Hilfe eines anderen Messverfahrens (zB Health-Canada-Messverfahren) ermittelt wurden. Dadurch würden die Verbraucher präzisere Informationen über die Messwerte bekommen.

Die Rechtsdurchsetzung ist Angelegenheit der Mitgliedsstaaten und nicht der EU. Auch wenn die EU dieses Prinzip einführt, würden die Beträge für Gebühren und Sanktionen zwischen den Mitgliedsstaaten unterschiedlich ausfallen. Dies deshalb, da es in die Kompetenz des jeweiligen Staates fällt. Eine Verbesserung des Funktionierens des Binnenmarktes ist somit auf diese Weise nicht ersichtlich.

Der Fokus bei der Evaluierung von Zusatzstoffen sollte ganz grundsätzlich darauf ausgerichtet sein, ob deren Einsatz die toxische Wirkung des Zigarettenrauches erhöht. Es sollte daher nicht von der Attraktivität der Stoffe ausgegangen werden, da diese nahezu ausschließlich auf subjektiven Kriterien fußen.

The knowledge of how harmful tobacco would be is already of a high level, also on the basis of the existing warnings; no value added by the increase of information; negative impact on the fulfilments of sector's operators and of tobacco retailers; full aversion to plain packaging because of the confusion on manufacturers identification brands, with a consequent proliferation of illegal trade of counterfeited as well as smuggled products.

There is no evidence of the correlation between display ban and consumption bent. No scientific evidence concerning the risks related to smokeless tobacco products consumption.

questions consumer
problem definition

No

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

No change

additional comments

questions on reporting

problem definition

Yes

which option

Establish a common compulsory reporting format

regulation of ingredients

problem definition

No

explanations

Yes

which option

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments

questions scope

problem definition

No

explanations

It is very simple to understand: the vast majority of adverse health effects associated with tobacco use come from smoking tobacco. The majority of these problems would still be present if it were another substance being smoke. It is the chemicals created by the combustion process (eg carbon monoxide) and the additives in the tobacco that cause most smoking related cancers. Smokeless tobacco and nicotine products are not risk-free. However they present a very small fraction of health risks (compared to smoking) to people who choose to use them. Banning them or regulating them into obscurity condemns people (people hopelessly addicted to nicotine) to a carcinogenic delivery system. The humane decision to allow users free access to smokeless products frees them from most (albeit not all) of the detrimental health effects of smoking and represents a net gain for public health. This would be true even if millions of non-smokers chose to use them. The difference between the risks of smoked tobacco versus smokeless nicotine is that stark. The lessons and evidence of Swedish snus are undeniable.

No change

recommend option

Products should be tested for safety and effectiveness at reducing smoked-tobacco use. HOWEVER so far these products have been shown to produce so few adverse incidents and outcomes that they can safely be left on the market while testing continues. The perfect should not become an enemy of the good.

additional comments

After 20+ years of smoking, I switched to using electronic cigarettes 2 years ago (almost exactly to the day). I ceased smoking tobacco entirely within 3 days of first e-cig use. It required very little mental effort. I have no unpleasant side effects apart from dry mouth and trapped air. I feel healthier. I no longer have a smoker's cough. My previously normal blood pressure is now below-normal (as it was for me as a young adult). My doctor says my lungs sound clear, and I am (from his point of view) a non-smoker.

I think most smokers are aware they are killing themselves.

which option

Improve consumer information

which improvement

Tar, nicotine and carbon monoxide levels to be replaced with general information on harmful substances in tobacco products; Information on harmful substances in tobacco products that cannot be placed on the package would be placed inside the package

additional option

i personally do not care. I think all smokers are aware of the problem. I successfully kicked the smoking habit with an ecig 2 years ago. If they stay on the market, then you can do whatever you like with real cigarettes.

additional comments

The knowledge of how harmful tobacco would be is already of a high level, also on the basis of the existing warnings; no value added by the increase of information; negative impact on the fulfilments of sector's operators and of tobacco retailers; full aversion to plain packaging because of the confusion on manufacturers identification brands, with a consequent proliferation of illegal trade of counterfeited as well as smuggled products.

No

explanations

additional option

additional comments

There is no evidence of the correlation between display ban and consumption bent. In other experiences – see Canada – important loss have been recorded for the tobacco retailers: structural reorganization of the shop, higher management costs and important reduction of the profitability with the consequent risk of giving up the business. additional comments

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

additional comments

regulation of ingredientsproblem definition

explanations

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments

profitability with the consequent risk of giving up the business. Also increasing of illegal products sale (counterfeited and smuggled).

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

additional comments

Establish a common compulsory reporting format

regulation of ingredients

problem definition

No

explanations

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale; Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments

additional comments

There is no evidence of the correlation between display ban and consumption bent. In other experiences – see Canada – important loss have been recorded for the tobacco retailers: structural reorganization of the shop, higher management costs and important reduction of the profitability with the consequent risk of giving up the business. Also increasing of illegal products sale (counterfeited and smuggled).

Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments

additional comments

Establish a common compulsory reporting format

problem definition

No

explanations

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments

No scientific evidence concerning the risks related to smokeless tobacco products consumption.

Lifting the ban on snus

questions consumer

problem definition

No

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

No change

additional comments

questions on reporting

problem definition

Yes

which option

Establish a common compulsory reporting format

regulation of ingredients

problem definition

No

explanations

access to tobacco productsproblem definition

Yes

which option

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments
