Project: EUGENMED (ID: 602050)

Programme: FP7-HEALTH

Objectives

- Developing a methodology and toolkit to identify relevant outcomes of research addressing policies & interventions in the area of disease prevention, making use of existing research databases at the EU level?
- Provide recommendation on how to use existing databases for evaluating past and ongoing research projects in order to identify evidence-based initiatives and interventions worth implementing?

With the purpose of better supporting health policy making and avoiding waste in research and implementation funding

- Contains 1150+ evaluated projects and a training toolkit for researchers to commercialize their projects
- Strength: Research results identification using a standardized method
- Limitations: Manual and one moment (retrospective) analysis of projects and focus on commercialization potential only

Approach and options

1. Pilot on existing projects in the CORDIS database in the area of alcohol prevention to be replicated in a second area
 - assess projects, define indicators to evaluate outcomes of interest and identify missing information
2. Focus on projects addressing service and/or policy interventions rather than fundamental research.
 - To ensure strongest linkage to the best practices selection process and portal and to be most relevant for policy and decision making
3. Focus on EU funded projects in the Cordis database and manners to refine its search engines, but with linkages to other initiatives at international and national level
 - To expand when possible and to avoid duplication with existing efforts within the EU and globally

Questions to the SGPP

1. Which topic areas would be most beneficial to support the SGPP members as part of a pilot project?
2. Which international and national level initiatives and methodologies should the project build on?
3. How can a future tool support DG SANTE and the Member States best, e.g. by expanding to ongoing projects to support policy making earlier?
