Color	Description
	Number of responses which identified themselves as the variable in question. For example, 20 594 respondents identified as female, while 436 respondents identified as representatives from government. The total should correspond to the sum of the respondents in the column.
	This category takes the number of requested records and shows the percentage of records compared to the total records for that category. While the chart above looks at the whole survey (85 513), this category will generally be smaller. For example, in Austria, 373 respondents identified as female, but that only represents ~25% of the total respondents (1465). This will not equal 100%
	This category shows the percentage breakdown of records including those who didn't respond to that specific section of the questionnaire. This should equal 100%.
	This category shows the percentage divide across those who responded to the question. It should always equal 100%.
