additional comments

The knowledge of how harmful tobacco would be is already of a high level, also on the basis of the existing warnings; no value added by the increase of information; negative impact on the fulfilments of sector's operators and of tobacco retailers; full aversion to plain packaging because of the confusion on manufacturers identification brands, with a consequent proliferation of illegal trade of counterfeited as well as smuggled products.

questions on reporting*problem definition

Yes

which option

Establish a common compulsory reporting format

regulation of ingredients*problem definition

No

explanations

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

No Change

access to tobacco products*problem definition

Yes

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;

Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

questions smokeless*problem definition

comments

No scientific evidence concerning the risks related to smokeless tobacco products consumption.

Lifting the ban on snus

questions consumer*problem definition

No

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

No change

Yes

which option

No

explanations

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

No Change

access to tobacco products

problem definition

Yes

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

There is no evidence of the correlation between display ban and consumption bent. In other experiences – see Canada – important loss have been recorded for the tobacco retailers: structural reorganization of the shop, higher management costs and important reduction of the profitability with the consequent risk of giving up the business. Also increasing of illegal products sale (counterfeited and smuggled).

additional comments

The knowledge of how harmful tobacco would be is already of a high level, also on the basis of the existing warnings; no value added by the increase of information; negative impact on the fulfilments of sector's operators and of tobacco retailers; full aversion to plain packaging because of the confusion on manufacturers identification brands, with a consequent proliferation of illegal trade of counterfeited as well as smuggled products.

questions on reporting

Yes

which option

Establish a common compulsory reporting format

regulation of ingredients

No

explanations

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

which option

No Change

Yes

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

There is no evidence of the correlation between display ban and consumption bent. In other experiences – see Canada – important loss have been recorded for the tobacco retailers: structural reorganization of the shop, higher management costs and important reduction of the profitability with the consequent risk of giving up the business. Also increasing of illegal products sale (counterfeited and smuggled).

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

which option

Yes

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

Controlled supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale; Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

No scientific evidence concerning the risks related to smokeless tobacco products consumption.

No

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

No change

The knowledge of how harmful tobacco would be is already of a high level, also on the basis of the existing warnings; no value added by the increase of information; negative impact on the fulfilments of sector's operators and of tobacco retailers; full aversion to plain packaging because of the confusion on manufacturers identification brands, with a consequent proliferation of illegal trade of counterfeited as well as smuggled products.

No

questions smokeless*problem definition

No scientific evidence concerning the risks related to smokeless tobacco products consumption.

No

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

No change

The knowledge of how harmful tobacco would be is already of a high level, also on the basis of the existing warnings; no value added by the increase of information; negative impact on the fulfilments of sector's operators and of tobacco retailers; full aversion to plain packaging

because of the confusion on manufacturers identification brands, with a consequent proliferation of illegal trade of counterfeited as well as smuggled products.

Yes

which option

regulation of ingredients

No

explanations

which option

Yes

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

additional comments

Yes

explanations

Yes

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

No scientific evidence concerning the risks related to smokeless tobacco products consumption.

No

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

No change

Yes

No

explanations

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

Yes

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

Es gibt meines Erachtens keine wissenschaftlichen Beweise dafür, dass größere Warnhinweise oder Bilder besser geeignet sind, potenzielle Raucher vom Rauchen abzuhalten bzw. Raucher davon zu überzeugen mit dem Rauchen aufzuhören. Auch bei Plain Packaging gibt es bis dato keine Beweise dafür, dass sie eine Auswirkung auf die Gesundheit der Bevölkerung haben. Plain Packaging würde vielmehr Fälschungen und illegalen Handel mit Tabakprodukten forcieren, weil die Fälschungssicherheit der Produkte nicht gewährleistet werden kann.

Die Rechtsdurchsetzung ist Angelegenheit der Mitgliedstaaten und nicht der EU. Auch wenn die EU dieses Prinzip einführt, würden die Beiträge für Gebühren und Sanktionen zwischen den Mitgliedsstaaten unterschiedlich ausfallen. Dies deshalb, da es in die Kompetenz des jeweiligen Staates fällt. Eine Verbesserung des Funktionierens des Binnenmarktes ist somit auf diese Weise nicht ersichtlich.

which option

Der Fokus bei der Evaluierung von Zusatzstoffen sollte ganz grundsätzlich darauf ausgerichtet sein, ob deren Einsatz die toxische Wirkung des Zigarettenrauchens erhöht. Es sollte daher nicht von der Attraktivität der Stoffe ausgegangen werden, da diese nahezu ausschließlich auf der subjektiven Kriterien fußen.

Die hier dargestellte Problemstellung zielt nicht auf gesundheitspolitische Probleme im Zusammenhang mit Tabakkonsum und die Verfügbarkeit der Produkte ab. Weiters werden keinerlei Beweise für die Annahme angeboten, dass derartige Verbote den Binnenmarkt stärken aber zu einer Reduktion des Tabakkonsums führen würden.

No

because of the confusion on manufacturers identification brands, with a consequent proliferation of illegal trade of counterfeited as well as smuggled products.

Yes

explanations

Yes

Controlled supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

regulation of ingredients*problem definition

explanations

which option

Yes

Controlled supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

Controlled supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

explanations

explanations

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

explanations

which option

Yes

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

profitability with the consequent risk of giving up the business. Also increasing of illegal products sale (counterfeited and smuggled).

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

There is no evidence of the correlation between display ban and consumption bent. In other experiences – see Canada – important loss have been recorded for the tobacco retailers: structural reorganization of the shop, higher management costs and important reduction of the profitability with the consequent risk of giving up the business. Also increasing of illegal products sale (counterfeited and smuggled).

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

because of the confusion on manufacturers identification brands, with a consequent proliferation of illegal trade of counterfeited as well as smuggled products.

Es gibt meines Erachtens keine wissenschaftlichen Beweise dafür, dass größere Warnhinweise oder Bilder besser dazu geeignet sind, potenzielle Raucher vom Rauchen abzuhalten bzw. Raucher davon zu überzeugen, mit dem Rauchen aufzuhören. Auch bei Plain Packaging gibt es bis dato keine Beweise dafür, dass sie eine Auswirkung der Gesundheit der Bevölkerung haben. Plain Packaging würde vielmehr Fälschungen und den illegalen Handel mit Tabakprodukten forcieren, weil die Fälschungssicherheit der Produkte nicht gewährleistet werden kann.

Zur besseren Kennzeichnung der Inhaltsstoffe könnte man z.B. Zahlen verwenden, die mit Hilfe eines anderen Messverfahrens (zB Health-Canada-Messverfahren) ermittelt wurden. Dadurch würden die Verbraucher präzisere Informationen über die Messwerte bekommen.

Die Rechtsdurchsetzung ist Angelegenheit der Mitgliedsstaaten und nicht der EU. Auch wenn die EU dieses Prinzip einführt, würden die Beträge für Gebühren und Sanktionen zwischen den Mitgliedsstaaten unterschiedlich ausfallen. Dies deshalb, da es in die Kompetenz des jeweiligen Staates fällt. Eine Verbesserung des Funktionierens des Binnenmarktes ist somit auf diese Weise nicht ersichtlich.

Der Fokus bei der Evaluierung von Zusatzstoffen sollte ganz grundsätzlich darauf ausgerichtet sein, ob deren Einsatz die toxische Wirkung des Zigarettenrauches erhöht. Es sollte daher nicht von der Attraktivität der Stoffe ausgegangen werden, da diese nahezu ausschließlich auf subjektiven Kriterien fußen.

Yes

explanations

Yes

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

profitability with the consequent risk of giving up the business. Also increasing of illegal products sale (counterfeited and smuggled).

No scientific evidence concerning the risks related to smokeless tobacco products consumption.

questions consumer

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

The knowledge of how harmful tobacco would be is already of a high level, also on the basis of the existing warnings; no value added by the increase of information; negative impact on the fulfilments of sector's operators and of tobacco retailers; full aversion to plain packaging because of the confusion on manufacturers identification brands, with a consequent proliferation of illegal trade of counterfeited as well as smuggled products.

Yes

regulation of ingredients

explanations

which option

Yes

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

Il n'y a pas d'études scientifiques efficaces prouvant les risques concernant les produits du tabac sans fumée

No

Aucune étude ne prouve l'efficacité des paquets neutres. Aucune étude ne prouve l'efficacité des photos choc, ni même de plus grands avertissements sanitaires sur les paquets. La mise en place de paquets neutres risque d'entraîner une guerre des prix du tabac (puisque cela restera le seul moyen pour les fabricants de se différencier<sup>o</sup>). La mise en place de photos chocs sur les 2 faces des paquets ou de paquets génériques va pousser les consommateurs français à aller s'approvisionner sur les marchés parallèles du tabac (achats à l'étranger ou de contrebande ou sur internet). De telles mesures risquent de déstabiliser et pénaliser économiquement le réseau des 28 000 buralistes français organisés dans un réseau réglementé et sous tutelle de l'état

Cela risque d'entraîner une standardisation de la production avec comme conséquence une diminution de l'offre au fumeur adulte et responsable, et le risque de voir apparaître une augmentation des produits du tabac contrefaits

which one2

Cross-border retail sales of tobacco to be banned over the Internet

Il n'y a pas de corrélation prouvée entre la disparition des linéaires tabac et la lutte contre le tabagisme. La France dispose d'un réseau de 28 000 buralistes, préposés de l'administration responsables et professionnels, seuls habilités à vendre du tabac. Ce réseau est fortement réglementé par l'état ce qui permet de contrôler déjà efficacement l'accès au produit tabac.

problem definition

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

questions on reporting

Yes

which option

explanations

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

No

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

The knowledge of how harmful tobacco would be is already of a high level, also on the basis of the existing warnings; no value added by the increase of information; negative impact on the fulfilments of sector's operators and of tobacco retailers; full aversion to plain packaging because of the confusion on manufacturers identification brands, with a consequent proliferation of illegal trade of counterfeited as well as smuggled products.

explanations

Controlled supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

problem definition

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

No change

The knowledge of how harmful tobacco would be is already of a high level, also on the basis of the existing warnings; no value added by the increase of information; negative impact on

the fulfilments of sector's operators and of tobacco retailers; full aversion to plain packaging because of the confusion on manufacturers identification brands, with a consequent proliferation of illegal trade of counterfeited as well as smuggled products.

which option

explanations

Es gibt unseres Erachtens keine wissenschaftliche Beweise dafür, dass größere Warnhinweise oder Bilder besser dazu geeignet sind, potentielle Raucher vom Rauchen abzuhalten bzw. Raucher davon zu überzeugen, mit dem Rauchen aufzuhören. Auch beim Plain Packaging gibt es bis dato keine Beweise dafür, dass sie eine Auswirkung der Gesundheit der Bevölkerung habe. Plain Packaging würde vielmehr Fälschungen und den illegalen Handel mit Tabakprodukten forcieren, weil die Fälschungssicherheit der Produkte nicht gewährleistet werden kann.

additional options

Es sollte ein gemeinsames, auf EU-Ebene eingerichtetes Meldeformat entwickelt werden, und zwar auf Grundlage der vorhandenen, von der Kommission im Mai 2007 veröffentlichten Formate. Dabei sollte darauf geachtet werden, dass jedes Meldesystem die Geschäftsgeheimnisse von Herstellern entsprechend schützt. Wie bereits zu Frage 1) ausgeführt, können die Mitglieder bereits Registrierungsgebühren erheben und Sanktionen für die Nichtbefolgung von beliebigen Aspekten der Richtlinie einführen, sodass Option 3 nicht zielführend erscheint. Aus diesen Gründen wird empfohlen, die Option 2 zu wählen.

No scientific evidence concerning the risks related to smokeless tobacco products consumption.

questions consumer

No

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

questions on reporting

Yes

which option

explanations

access to tobacco products

Yes

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

Cigar smoking is in every way different from cigarette smoking. It is not marketed in the mass media, it does not target youngsters, it is not a thing of addiction or compulsion. Cigar and cigarette smoking should not be put in the same basket, nor subject to the same blanket legislation.

Cigars are made from 100% natural materials and not pumped full of chemicals like cigarettes.

No

Cigars only have one ingredient, which is fermented tobacco. No extra labelling needed above what already exists.

Cigars naturally limit sales because of the significantly higher price point compared to cigarettes. It is much less likely for an underage smoker to buy a Cohiba Esplendido, than it is for him or her to buy a pack of Marlboros.

No

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

Yes

explanations

which option

Yes

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

questions smokeless

comments
No scientific evidence concerning the risks related to smokeless tobacco products consumption.

Lifting the ban on snus

questions consumer
No

explanations
No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option
No change

additional comments

questions on reporting
Yes

which option

explanations

which option

Yes

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

No

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

No change

The knowledge of how harmful tobacco would be is already of a high level, also on the basis of the existing warnings; no value added by the increase of information; negative impact on

the fulfilments of sector's operators and of tobacco retailers; full aversion to plain packaging because of the confusion on manufacturers identification brands, with a consequent proliferation of illegal trade of counterfeited as well as smuggled products.

explanations

questions smokeless

comments

No scientific evidence concerning the risks related to smokeless tobacco products consumption.

questions consumer

No

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

Yes

which option

regulation of ingredients

explanations

market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

Yes

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;

Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

comments

No scientific evidence concerning the risks related to smokeless tobacco products consumption.

which option

problem definition

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

questions on reporting*problem definition

Yes

explanations

which option

Yes

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

profitability with the consequent risk of giving up the business. Also increasing of illegal products sale (counterfeited and smuggled).

problem definition

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

The knowledge of how harmful tobacco would be is already of a high level, also on the basis of the existing warnings; no value added by the increase of information; negative impact on the fulfilments of sector's operators and of tobacco retailers; full aversion to plain packaging because of the confusion on manufacturers identification brands, with a consequent proliferation of illegal trade of counterfeited as well as smuggled products.

No

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

problem definition

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

The knowledge of how harmful tobacco would be is already of a high level, also on the basis of the existing warnings; no value added by the increase of information; negative impact on the fulfilments of sector's operators and of tobacco retailers; full aversion to plain packaging because of the confusion on manufacturers identification brands, with a consequent proliferation of illegal trade of counterfeited as well as smuggled products.

explanations

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

There is no evidence of the correlation between display ban and consumption bent. In other experiences – see Canada – important loss have been recorded for the tobacco retailers: structural reorganization of the shop, higher management costs and important reduction of the profitability with the consequent risk of giving up the business. Also increasing of illegal products sale (counterfeited and smuggled).

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

The knowledge of how harmful tobacco would be is already of a high level, also on the basis of the existing warnings; no value added by the increase of information; negative impact on the fulfilments of sector's operators and of tobacco retailers; full aversion to plain packaging because of the confusion on manufacturers identification brands, with a consequent proliferation of illegal trade of counterfeited as well as smuggled products.

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

questions on reporting*problem definition

Yes

explanations

which option

Yes

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

questions smokeless

comments

No scientific evidence concerning the risks related to smokeless tobacco products consumption.

questions consumer

No

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

questions on reporting

Yes

which option

explanations

which option

Yes

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;

Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

No

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

No change

questions on reporting*problem definition

Yes

explanations

which option

Yes

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

There is no evidence of the correlation between display ban and consumption bent. In other experiences – see Canada – important loss have been recorded for the tobacco retailers: structural reorganization of the shop, higher management costs and important reduction of the profitability with the consequent risk of giving up the business. Also increasing of illegal products sale (counterfeited and smuggled).

problem definition

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

No change

explanations

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

No

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

No change

questions on reporting

explanations

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

No scientific evidence concerning the risks related to smokeless tobacco products consumption.

No

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

questions on reporting*problem definition

Yes

explanations

No scientific evidence concerning the risks related to smokeless tobacco products consumption.

No

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

questions on reporting*problem definition

Yes

explanations

which option

Yes

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

explanations

The knowledge of how harmful tobacco would be is already of a high level, also on the basis of the existing warnings; no value added by the increase of information; negative impact on the fulfilments of sector's operators and of tobacco retailers; full aversion to plain packaging because of the confusion on manufacturers identification brands, with a consequent proliferation of illegal trade of counterfeited as well as smuggled products.

No

Es gibt keinen überzeugenden Beleg dafür, dass ein Warnhinweis umso wirksamer ist, je größer sein Format. Es existiert bereits ein allgemeines Bewusstsein der Risiken des Rauchens. Ein Hinzufügen von Bildern auf den Warnhinweisen erhöht dieses Bewusstsein nicht—die Bilder wirken lediglich überwiegend abstoßend ohne eine zusätzliche Information zu bieten. Es wird pauschal unterstellt, dass die Einführung von Bildwarnhinweisen auf das Rauchverhalten der Verbraucher einwirkt. Dafür werden allerdings keine Nachweise aus den Ländern zugeliefert, in denen Bildwarnhinweise bereits verpflichtend eingeführt wurden. Eine Einheitspackung würde den Wesensgehalt des Markenrechts und damit auch die Interessen der Verbraucher verletzen. Eine Marke dient nämlich auch als Herkunftshinweis und ist somit ein unverzichtbares Element zur Wahrung der Entscheidungs- und Wahlfreiheit der Bürger. Die Einführung von Einheitspackungen für Zigaretten wäre eine massive Entmündigung der Bürger. Stichhaltige wissenschaftliche Nachweise, dass Tabakverpackungen und Produktmerkmale von Tabakerzeugnissen das Raucherverhalten von Verbrauchern beeinflussen/fördern, existieren nicht. Über die Einführung von neutralen Verpackungen konzentriert sich der Wettbewerb verstärkt auf das Preis-Marketing. Sinkende Preise wären die Konsequenz. Dies ist in jeder Hinsicht (Jugend- und Gesundheitsschutz, Steuereinnahmen...) kontraproduktiv und bedroht die Existenz des reinnationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Durch die Umsetzung von neutralen Verpackungen wird Produktfälschern die Arbeit erleichtert und das Problem des Schmuggels weiter verschärft. Dies bedroht die Existenz des rein nationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Die Kommission selbst hat im Rahmen der Tabak-Produkt-Richtlinie die Höchstgehalte an Teer, Nikotin und Kohlenmonoxid begrenzt. Eine Darstellung, dass Verbraucher aufgrund der niedrigeren Höchstgehalte den Konsum der Produkte als weniger riskant für ihre Gesundheit einstufen könnten, ist daher absurd.

gefährdet weder die Gesundheit Dritter noch schränkt der Konsum dieser Produkte andere Personen in ihren Lebensgewohnheiten ein. Der Konsum dieser Produkte liegt in der Eigenverantwortung des Einzelnen. Das Bewerben und Verkaufen dieser Produkte muss daher möglich sein. Das EU-weite Verbot von Snus (Ausnahme Schweden) stellt eine massive Entmündigung der Bürger dar. Denn die erwachsenen Verbraucher haben das Recht, auch bei Genussmitteln mit Gesundheitsrisiken die Wahl zu haben und eigenverantwortliche Entscheidungen zu treffen. Aus der Problemdarstellung der Kommission lässt sich keine wissenschaftlich fundierte Grundlage ableiten, die ein EU-weites Verbot von Snus (Ausnahme Schweden) oder anderer rauchloser Produkte rechtfertigen könnte. Beispielsweise vermissen wir in der Problemdarstellung wissenschaftlich fundierte Wirkungsanalysen aus Ländern, in denen Snus oder andere rauchlose Tabakerzeugnisse konsumiert werden.

No

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

questions on reporting*problem definition

Yes

explanations

which option

Yes

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

Der Konsum rauchloser Tabakerzeugnisse durch erwachsene und aufgeklärte Personen gefährdet weder die Gesundheit Dritter noch schränkt der Konsum dieser Produkte andere Personen in ihren Lebensgewohnheiten ein. Der Konsum dieser Produkte liegt in der Eigenverantwortung des Einzelnen. Das Bewerben und Verkaufen dieser Produkte muss daher möglich sein. Das EU-weite Verbot von Snus (Ausnahme Schweden) stellt eine massive Entmündigung der Bürger dar. Denn die erwachsenen Verbraucher haben das Recht, auch bei Genussmitteln mit Gesundheitsrisiken die Wahl zu haben und eigenverantwortliche Entscheidungen zu treffen. Aus der Problemdarstellung der Kommission lässt sich keine wissenschaftlich fundierte Grundlage ableiten, die ein EU-weites Verbot von Snus (Ausnahme Schweden) oder anderer rauchloser Produkte rechtfertigen könnte. Beispielsweise vermissen wir in der Problemdarstellung wissenschaftlich fundierte Wirkungsanalysen aus Ländern, in denen Snus oder andere rauchlose Tabakerzeugnisse konsumiert werden.

No

größer sein Format. Es existiert bereits ein allgemeines Bewusstsein der Risiken des Rauchens. Ein Hinzufügen von Bildern auf den Warnhinweisen erhöht dieses Bewusstsein nicht—die Bilder wirken lediglich überwiegend abstoßend ohne eine zusätzliche Information zu bieten. Es wird pauschal unterstellt, dass die Einführung von Bildwarnhinweisen auf das Rauchverhalten der Verbraucher einwirkt. Dafür werden allerdings keine Nachweise aus den Ländern zugeliefert, in denen Bildwarnhinweise bereits verpflichtend eingeführt wurden. Eine Einheitspackung würde den Wesensgehalt des Markenrechts und damit auch die Interessen der Verbraucher verletzen. Eine Marke dient nämlich auch als Herkunftshinweis und ist somit ein unverzichtbares Element zur Wahrung der Entscheidungs- und Wahlfreiheit der Bürger. Die Einführung von Einheitspackungen für Zigaretten wäre eine massive Entmündigung der Bürger. Stichhaltige wissenschaftliche Nachweise, dass Tabakverpackungen und Produktmerkmale von Tabakerzeugnissen das Rauchverhalten von Verbrauchern beeinflussen/fördern, existieren nicht. Über die Einführung von neutralen Verpackungen konzentriert sich der Wettbewerb verstärkt auf das Preis-Marketing. Sinkende Preise wären die Konsequenz. Dies ist in jeder Hinsicht (Jugend- und Gesundheitsschutz, Steuereinnahmen...) kontraproduktiv und bedroht die Existenz des rein nationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Durch die Umsetzung von neutralen Verpackungen wird Produktfälschern die Arbeit erleichtert und das Problem des Schmuggels weiter verschärft. Dies bedroht die Existenz des rein nationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Die Kommission selbst hat im Rahmen der Tabak-Produkt-Richtlinie die Höchstgehalte an Teer, Nikotin und Kohlenmonoxid begrenzt. Eine Darstellung, dass Verbraucher aufgrund der niedrigeren Höchstgehalte den Konsum der Produkte als weniger riskant für ihre Gesundheit einstufen könnten, ist daher absurd.

which option

Die Problemdarstellung ist keine sachgerechte, an wissenschaftlichen Prüfstrategien und Standards orientierte und am Maßstab der Verhältnismäßigkeit ausgerichtete Diskussionsgrundlage. Die Darstellung, dass in einer Vielzahl von Mitgliedstaaten der Vertrieb von Tabakautomaten verboten ist, ist keine Problembeschreibung. Die Problembeschreibung trifft nicht zu. In 15 Mitgliedstaaten der EU 27 dürfen Tabakwaren über Automaten abgegeben werden. Dieser folgt i.d.R. unter strengen gesetzlichen Auflagen der nationalen Regierungen. Der Problembeschreibung stimme ich nicht zu. Die Bereiche „Verkauf von Tabakwaren über Zigarettenautomaten“ und „Mindestaltersgrenzen für den Bezug von Tabakwaren“ sind Themen, die eindeutig in den Zuständigkeitsbereich der Mitgliedstaaten fallen. Die Problembeschreibung „Zigarettenautomat“ ist überflüssig, da die Kommission selbst bereits bei ihrem Bericht zur Umsetzung der Ratsempfehlung 2003/54/E Caus November 2009 festgehalten hat: –Insgesamt ist die Umsetzung der Empfehlung zufrieden stellend. –Dies betrifft insbesondere die Verpflichtung, das Mindestalter für den Kauf von Tabakwaren zu überprüfen sowie die Durchführung von Maßnahmen zur Beschränkung der Verwendung von Automaten durch in der jährige Personen.

No scientific evidence concerning the risks related to smokeless tobacco products consumption.

No

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

questions on reporting*problem definition

Yes

explanations

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

No

explanations

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

größer sein Format. Es existiert bereits ein allgemeines Bewusstsein der Risiken des Rauchens. Ein Hinzufügen von Bildern auf den Warnhinweisen erhöht dieses Bewusstsein nicht—die Bilder wirken lediglich überwiegend abstoßend ohne eine zusätzliche Information zu bieten. Es wird pauschal unterstellt, dass die Einführung von Bildwarnhinweisen auf das Rauchverhalten der Verbraucher einwirkt. Dafür werden allerdings keine Nachweise aus den Ländern zugeliefert, in denen Bildwarnhinweise bereits verpflichtend eingeführt wurden. Eine Einheitspackung würde den Wesensgehalt des Markenrechts und damit auch die Interessen der Verbraucher verletzen. Eine Marke dient nämlich auch als Herkunftshinweis und ist somit ein unverzichtbares Element zur Wahrung der Entscheidungs- und Wahlfreiheit der Bürger. Die Einführung von Einheitspackungen für Zigaretten wäre eine massive Entmündigung der Bürger. Stichhaltige wissenschaftliche Nachweise, dass Tabakverpackungen und Produktmerkmale von Tabakerzeugnissen das Rauchverhalten von Verbrauchern beeinflussen/fördern, existieren nicht. Über die Einführung von neutralen Verpackungen konzentriert sich der Wettbewerb verstärkt auf das Preis-Marketing. Sinkende Preise wären die Konsequenz. Dies ist in jeder Hinsicht (Jugend- und Gesundheitsschutz, Steuereinnahmen...) kontraproduktiv und bedroht die Existenz des rein nationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Durch die Umsetzung von neutralen Verpackungen wird Produktfälschern die Arbeit erleichtert und das Problem des Schmuggels weiter verschärft. Dies bedroht die Existenz des rein nationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Die Kommission selbst hat im Rahmen der Tabak-Produkt-Richtlinie die Höchstgehalte an Teer, Nikotin und Kohlenmonoxid begrenzt. Eine Darstellung, dass Verbraucher aufgrund der niedrigeren Höchstgehalte den Konsum der Produkte als weniger riskant für ihre Gesundheit einstufen könnten, ist daher absurd.

regulation of ingredients

Kommission selbst bereits bei ihrem Bericht zur Umsetzung der Ratsempfehlung 2003/54/E Caus November 2009 festgehalten hat: –Insgesamt ist die Umsetzung der Empfehlung zufrieden stellend. –Dies betrifft insbesondere die Verpflichtung, das Mindestalter für den Kauf von Tabakwaren zu überprüfen sowie die Durchführung von Maßnahmen zur Beschränkung der Verwendung von Automaten durch in der jährige Personen.

which option

questions on reporting

regulation of ingredients

explanations

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

No scientific evidence concerning the risks related to smokeless tobacco products consumption.

No

explanations
No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option
No change

additional comments

questions on reporting
Yes

which option

explanations

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

Yes

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

Es gibt keinen überzeugenden Beleg dafür, dass ein Warnhinweis umso wirksamer ist, je größer sein Format. Es existiert bereits ein allgemeines Bewusstsein der Risiken des Rauchens. Ein Hinzufügen von Bildern auf den Warnhinweisen erhöht dieses Bewusstsein nicht—die Bilder wirken lediglich überwiegend abstoßend ohne eine zusätzliche Information zu bieten. Es wird pauschal unterstellt, dass die Einführung von Bildwarnhinweisen auf das Rauchverhalten der Verbraucher einwirkt. Dafür werden allerdings keine Nachweise aus den Ländern zugeliefert, in denen Bildwarnhinweise bereits verpflichtend eingeführt wurden. Eine Einheitspackung würde den Wesensgehalt des Markenrechts und damit auch die Interessen der Verbraucher verletzen. Eine Marke dient nämlich auch als Herkunftshinweis und ist somit ein unverzichtbares Element zur Wahrung der Entscheidungs- und Wahlfreiheit der Bürger. Die Einführung von Einheitspackungen für Zigaretten wäre eine massive Entmündigung der Bürger. Stichhaltige wissenschaftliche Nachweise, dass Tabakverpackungen und Produktmerkmale von Tabakerzeugnissen das Raucherverhalten von Verbrauchern beeinflussen/fördern, existieren nicht. Über die Einführung von neutralen Verpackungen konzentriert sich der Wettbewerb verstärkt auf das Preis-Marketing. Sinkende Preise wären die Konsequenz. Dies ist in jeder Hinsicht (Jugend- und Gesundheitsschutz, Steuereinnahmen...) kontraproduktiv und bedroht die Existenz des reinnationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Durch die Umsetzung von neutralen Verpackungen wird Produktfälschern die Arbeit erleichtert und das Problem des Schmuggels weiter verschärft. Dies bedroht die Existenz des rein nationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Die Kommission selbst hat im Rahmen der Tabak-Produkt-Richtlinie die Höchstgehalte an Teer, Nikotin und Kohlenmonoxid begrenzt. Eine Darstellung, dass Verbraucher aufgrund der niedrigeren Höchstgehalte den Konsum der Produkte als weniger riskant für ihre Gesundheit einstufen könnten, ist daher absurd.

würde. Die Mitgliedstaaten selbst sind gefordert, zusammen mit der Wirtschaft einen pragmatischen Weg zu diskutieren und umzusetzen. Ein notwendiger Handlungsbedarf oder gar ein Mandat der Kommission zum Eingriff in bestehende nationale Abläufe wird nicht ersichtlich.

Die Verbreitung des Rauchens in Ländern wie Großbritannien und Irland, in denen vorwiegend Zigaretten ohne Zusatzstoffe verkauft werden (Produkte des Virginia-Typs), ist nicht geringer als die Verbreitung in Ländern, in denen vorwiegend Zigaretten mit Zusatzstoffen (American-Blend-Produkte) verkauft werden. Ein Hinzufügen von Bildern auf den Warnhinweisen erhöht dieses Bewusstsein nicht—die Bilder wirken lediglich überwiegend abstoßend ohne eine zusätzliche Information zu bieten. Es wird pauschal unterstellt, dass die Einführung von Bildwarnhinweisen auf das Rauchverhalten der Verbraucher einwirkt. Dafür werden allerdings keine Nachweise aus den Ländern zugeliefert, in denen Bildwarnhinweise bereits verpflichtend eingeführt wurden. Eine Einheitspackung würde den Wesensgehalt des Markenrechts und damit auch die Interessen der Verbraucher verletzen. Eine Marke dient nämlich auch als Herkunftshinweis und ist somit ein unverzichtbares Element zur Wahrung der Entscheidungs- und Wahlfreiheit der Bürger. Die Einführung von Einheitspackungen für Zigaretten wäre eine massive Entmündigung der Bürger. Stichhaltige wissenschaftliche Nachweise, dass Tabakverpackungen und Produktmerkmale von Tabakerzeugnissen das Raucherverhalten von Verbrauchern beeinflussen/fördern, existieren nicht. Über die Einführung von neutralen Verpackungen konzentriert sich der Wettbewerb verstärkt auf das Preis-Marketing. Sinkende Preise wären die Konsequenz. Dies ist in jeder Hinsicht (Jugend- und Gesundheitsschutz, Steuereinnahmen...) kontraproduktiv und bedroht die Existenz des reinnationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Durch die Umsetzung von neutralen Verpackungen wird Produktfälschern die Arbeit erleichtert und das Problem des Schmuggels weiter verschärft.

Dies bedroht die Existenz des rein nationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Die Kommission selbst hat im Rahmen der Tabak-Produkt-Richtlinie die Höchstgehalte an Teer, Nikotin und Kohlenmonoxid begrenzt. Eine Darstellung, dass Verbraucher aufgrund der niedrigeren Höchstgehalte den Konsum der Produkte als weniger riskant für ihre Gesundheit einstufen könnten, ist daher absurd.

regulation of ingredients

problem definition

which option

additional comments

The knowledge of how harmful tobacco would be is already of a high level, also on the basis of the existing warnings; no value added by the increase of information; negative impact on the fulfilments of sector's operators and of tobacco retailers; full aversion to plain packaging because of the confusion on manufacturers identification brands, with a consequent proliferation of illegal trade of counterfeited as well as smuggled products.

explanations

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

There is no evidence of the correlation between display ban and consumption bent. No

explanations

which option

No change

The knowledge of how harmful tobacco would be is already of a high level, also on the basis of the existing warnings; no value added by the increase of information; negative impact on the fulfilments of sector's operators and of tobacco retailers; full aversion to plain packaging because of the confusion on manufacturers identification brands, with a consequent proliferation of illegal trade of counterfeited as well as smuggled products.

Yes

which option

regulation of ingredients

explanations

which option

Yes

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

Es gibt keinen überzeugenden Beleg dafür, dass ein Warnhinweis umso wirksamer ist, je größer sein Format. Es existiert bereits ein allgemeines Bewusstsein der Risiken des Rauchens. Ein Hinzufügen von Bildern auf den Warnhinweisen erhöht dieses Bewusstsein nicht—die Bilder wirken lediglich überwiegend abstoßend ohne eine zusätzliche Information zu bieten. Es wird pauschal unterstellt, dass die Einführung von Bildwarnhinweisen auf das Rauchverhalten der Verbraucher einwirkt. Dafür werden allerdings keine Nachweise aus den Ländern zugeliefert, in denen Bildwarnhinweise bereits verpflichtend eingeführt wurden. Eine Einheitspackung würde den Wesensgehalt des Markenrechts und damit auch die Interessen der Verbraucher verletzen. Eine Marke dient nämlich auch als Herkunftshinweis und ist somit ein unverzichtbares Element zur Wahrung der Entscheidungs- und Wahlfreiheit der Bürger. Die Einführung von Einheitspackungen für Zigaretten wäre eine massive Entmündigung der Bürger. Stichhaltige wissenschaftliche Nachweise, dass Tabakverpackungen und Produktmerkmale von Tabakerzeugnissen das Raucherverhalten von Verbrauchern beeinflussen/fördern, existieren nicht. Über die Einführung von neutralen Verpackungen konzentriert sich der Wettbewerb verstärkt auf das Preis-Marketing. Sinkende Preise wären die Konsequenz. Dies ist in jeder Hinsicht (Jugend- und Gesundheitsschutz, Steuereinnahmen...) kontraproduktiv und bedroht die Existenz des rein nationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Durch die Umsetzung von neutralen Verpackungen wird Produktfälschern die Arbeit erleichtert und das Problem des Schmuggels weiter verschärft. Dies bedroht die Existenz des rein nationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Die Kommission selbst hat im Rahmen der Tabak-Produkt-Richtlinie die Höchstgehalte an Teer, Nikotin und Kohlenmonoxid begrenzt. Eine Darstellung, dass Verbraucher aufgrund der niedrigeren Höchstgehalte den Konsum der Produkte als weniger riskant für ihre Gesundheit einstufen könnten, ist daher absurd.

Wenn dies so wäre, verwundert es sehr, dass der Anstoß in Richtung einer Vereinheitlichung und Vereinfachung nicht aus den Mitgliedstaaten selbst hervorgeht, sondern von der Kommission vorgebracht wird und dann im Zusammenhang mit einer Option, die der Wirtschaft zusätzlich dauerhafte Kosten (jährliche Gebühr) auferlegen würde.

Die Mitgliedstaaten selbst sind gefordert, zusammen mit der Wirtschaft einen pragmatischen Weg zu diskutieren und umzusetzen. Ein notwendiger Handlungsbedarf odereinein Mandat der Kommission zum Eingriff in bestehenden nationale Abläufe wird nicht ersichtlich.

No

Die Problemdarstellung ist keineswegs sachgerecht, an wissenschaftlichen Prüfstrategien und Standards orientierte und am Maßstab der Verhältnismäßigkeit ausgerichtete Diskussionsgrundlage.

Der Begriff „attraktiv“ ist ein subjektives Kriterium für ein Verbot oder eine Regulierung von Zusatzstoffen und entbehrt jeglicher wissenschaftlicher Grundlage.

Typs), ist nicht geringer als die Verbreitung in Ländern, in denen vorwiegend Zigaretten mit Zusatzstoffen (American-Blend-Produkte) verkauft werden.

Wettbewerbsrechtliche Auswirkungen einer einseitigen Regulierung von Produkten mit Zusatzstoffen werden nicht thematisiert.

Die Fragen nach der Wirkung auf das Preisgefüge in den EU 27 Märkten sowie Effekte auf den illegalen Handel mit Tabakerzeugnissen werden nicht thematisiert.

No

orientierte und am Maßstab der Verhältnismäßigkeit ausgerichtete Diskussionsgrundlage. Die Darstellung, dass in einer Vielzahl von Mitgliedstaaten der Vertrieb von Tabakautomaten verboten ist, ist keine Problembeschreibung.

Die Problembeschreibung trifft nicht zu. In 15 Mitgliedstaaten der EU 27 dürfen Tabakwaren über Automaten abgegeben werden. Dies erfolgt i. d. R. unter strengem gesetzlichen Auflagen und nationalen Regelungen.

Der Problembeschreibung stimmt nicht zu. Die Bereiche „Verkauf von Tabakwaren über Zigarettenautomaten“ und „Mindestaltersgrenzen für den Bezug von Tabakwaren“ sind Themen, die eindeutig in den Zuständigkeitsbereich der Mitgliedstaaten fallen.

Die Problembeschreibung „Zigarettenautomat“ ist überflüssig, da die Kommission selbst bereits bei ihrem Bericht zur Umsetzung der Ratsempfehlung 2003/54/EC aus November 2009 festgehalten hat: Insgesamt ist die Umsetzung der Empfehlung zufriedenstellend.

Dies betrifft insbesondere die Verpflichtung, das Mindestalter für den Kauf von Tabakwaren zu überprüfen sowie die Durchführung von Maßnahmen zur Beschränkung der Verwendung von Automaten durch minderjährige Personen.

Weder ein Verbot des Verkaufs von Tabakwaren in Automaten, noch die Untersagung der Auslage bzw. Sichtbarkeit von Zigaretten in Verkaufsstellen weisen eine grenzüberschreitende Bezug auf. Für Automaten ergibt sich das schon daraus, dass deren Einzugsgebiet auf die unmittelbare Nachbarschaft zum Automaten beschränkt ist.

Selbst wenn von Mitgliedstaat zu Mitgliedstaat unterschiedliche Anforderungen an die Gestaltung der Automaten - z. B. aus Gründen des Jugendschutzes - den grenzüberschreitenden Handel mit den Automaten behindern, würde ein Verbot der Automaten aufstellung dem gemeinschaftsweiten Warenhandel mit Automaten die Grundlage entziehen, dies aus so beeinträchtigen und ihn nicht erleichtern.

Die EU kann nur tätig werden, wenn sie die Kompetenz dazu hat – diese Kompetenz ist in den EU-Verträgen festgelegt.

Ein Verweis darauf, dass bisher weder die Frage der begrenzten Einzelermächtigung, der Subsidiarität oder der Verhältnismäßigkeit in Bezug auf die einzelnen Maßnahmen oder Optionen hingepprüft wurde, ist inakzeptabel. Die Problembeschreibung wird daher mangels fehlender juristischer Vorwertung der Kommission nicht mitgetragen. Dass die Existenz von Zigarettenautomaten einen Einfluss auf das Rauchverhalten Jugendlicher hat, ist wissenschaftlich nicht nachgewiesen. In Ländern mit einem Automatenverbot fällt die Quote jugendlicher Raucher zum Teil deutlich höher aus als in den Ländern mit einer Automatenvertriebsstruktur. Pläne der Europäischen Kommission zur Abschaffung der Automaten schränken daher die Bezugsmöglichkeiten erwachsener Verbraucher ein, dienen dem Jugendschutz jedoch in keiner Weise.“

Organisierte Kriminalität wird das Vakuum füllen, das entsteht, wenn legale Verkaufs- bzw. Bezugsstellen verschwinden.

Die Problembeschreibung verschweigt wesentliche Sachverhalte, die für die abschließende Bewertung von Bürgerinnen und Bürgern von Wichtigkeit sein können.

Beispielhaft sei hier eine Stellungnahme der Deutschen Bundesregierung vom 01.04.2010 im Rahmen einer Kleinen Anfrage der Fraktion Bündnis 90/Die Grünen im Hinblick auf ein generelles Automatenverbot genannt:

„Im Rahmen der Verhältnismäßigkeit sieht die Bundesregierung die bereits existierenden gesetzlichen Vorschriften und die in Vollzug dieser Vorschriften erfolgte Umsetzung der technischen Sicherung von Zigarettenautomaten durch Alterskontrolle per Geldkarte oder europäischem Führerschein als derzeit ausreichend und als die mildesten Mittel an, um das Abgabeverbot von Tabakwaren durch Automaten an Minderjährige wirksam zu regeln.“

problem definition

explanations

Tabakkonsum hat in Europa, vergleichbar mit Alkoholkonsum oder Autofahren, eine lange Tradition und ist fester Bestandteil der Kultur. Zu dieser Kultur gehören auch unterschiedliche Tabakmarken. Diesen Marken sollte man das Recht geben, sich durch Ausgestaltung der Verkaufsverpackung von anderen Marken abgrenzen zu können, genauso wie dies z.B. bei Biermarken, Automarken oder Marken in jedem anderen Bereich des Konsums auch der Fall ist.

which option

Einzigste Änderung der jetzigen Regelung, die mir sinnvoll erscheint, ist die Informationsbeilage im Innern der Verpackung. Hier kann umfangreich und sachlich über Gefahren des Tabakkonsums und die Möglichkeit von der Sucht frei zu kommen aufgeklärt werden. Eine solch objektive Aufklärung ist einer subjektiven Aufklärung durch Schockfotos, die dem Konsumenten aber keine weitere Information über den Tabakkonsum vermittelt, vorzuziehen.

Um den Zugang zu Tabak für Minderjährige einzuschränken, wäre es der effektivste Weg, den Tabakverkauf komplett auf spezialisierte Einzelhändler zu beschränken, zu deren Geschäften jediglich Erwachsene Zugang haben. Dies würde ein Verbot von Verkaufautomaten und ein Verbot von Tabakverkauf in z.B. Supermärkten voraussetzen. Wird der Tabak in einer Atmosphäre verkauft, zu der nur Erwachsene Zutritt haben und in der man von Fachpersonal beraten wird, das den Konsumenten über Gefahren des Tabakkonsums aufklärt, kann man auf Einheitsverpackungen und übergroße Warnhinweise auf Verpackungen, die die Souveränität von Tabakmarken einschränken, verzichten. Außerdem ist von einem Verbot des Tabakversandhandels abzuraten. Es gibt hunderte unterschiedliche Pfeifentabakmarken und selbst die meisten Fachhändler verkaufen nur einen Bruchteil davon. Möchte man als Konsument einen eher seltenen Tabak kaufen ist man auf den Versandhandel angewiesen, gerade in ländlichen Regionen. Ein Verbot des Versandhandels würde für viele Pfeifen- und Zigarrenraucher eine empfindliche Beeinträchtigung ihres persönlichen Genussempfindens bedeuten. Meiner Meinung nach ein inakzeptabler Eingriff in die persönliche Freiheit.

The knowledge of how harmful tobacco would be is already of a high level, also on the basis of the existing warnings; no value added by the increase of information; negative impact on the fulfilments of sector's operators and of tobacco retailers; full aversion to plain packaging because of the confusion on manufacturers identification brands, with a consequent proliferation of illegal trade of counterfeited as well as smuggled products.

No scientific evidence concerning the risks related to smokeless tobacco products consumption.

Lifting the ban on snus

questions consumer

No

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

No change

additional comments

questions on reporting

Yes

which option

Establish a common compulsory reporting format

explanations

access to tobacco products

Yes

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

Rauchverhalten der Verbraucher einwirkt. Dafür werden allerdings keine Nachweise aus den Ländern zugeliefert, in denen Bildwarnhinweise bereits verpflichtend eingeführt wurden. Eine Einheitspackung würde den Wesensgehalt des Markenrechts und damit auch die Interessen der Verbraucher verletzen. Eine Marke dient nämlich auch als Herkunftshinweis und ist somit ein unverzichtbares Element zur Wahrung der Entscheidungs- und Wahlfreiheit der Bürger. Die Einführung von Einheitspackungen für Zigaretten wäre eine massive Entmündigung der Bürger. Stichhaltige wissenschaftliche Nachweise, dass Tabakverpackungen und Produktmerkmale von Tabakerzeugnissen das Raucherverhalten von Verbrauchern beeinflussen/fördern, existieren nicht. Über die Einführung von neutralen Verpackungen konzentriert sich der Wettbewerb verstärkt auf das Preis-Marketing. Sinkende Preise wären die Konsequenz. Dies ist in jeder Hinsicht (Jugend- und Gesundheitsschutz, Steuereinnahmen...) kontraproduktiv und bedroht die Existenz des rein nationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Durch die Umsetzung von neutralen Verpackungen wird Produktfälschern die Arbeit erleichtert und das Problem des Schmuggels weiter verschärft. Dies bedroht die Existenz des rein nationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Die Kommission selbst hat im Rahmen der Tabak-Produkt-Richtlinie die Höchstgehalte an Teer, Nikotin und Kohlenmonoxid begrenzt. Eine Darstellung, dass Verbraucher aufgrund der niedrigeren Höchstgehalte den Konsum der Produkte als weniger riskant für ihre Gesundheit einstufen könnten, ist daher absurd.

questions on reporting

Yes

which option

Establish a common compulsory reporting format

regulation of ingredients

explanations

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

which option

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale; Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

Begründung heraus erfolgen, dass diese Produkte neu sind und nach der Auffassung der Kommission auch auf eine entsprechende Nachfrage in den einzelnen Märkten der EU 27 treffen. Oder aus der Begründung heraus, dass diese Produkte bisher keiner wissenschaftlichen Bewertung (Unbedenklichkeitsprüfung) unterzogen wurden.

Es gibt keinen überzeugenden Beleg dafür, dass ein Warnhinweis umso wirksamer ist, je größer sein Format. Es existiert bereits ein allgemeines Bewusstsein der Risiken des Rauchens. Ein Hinzufügen von Bildern auf den Warnhinweisen erhöht dieses Bewusstsein nicht—die Bilder wirken lediglich überwiegend abstoßend ohne eine zusätzliche Information zu bieten. Es wird pauschal unterstellt, dass die Einführung von Bildwarnhinweisen auf das Rauchverhalten der Verbraucher einwirkt. Dafür werden allerdings keine Nachweise aus den Ländern zugeliefert, in denen Bildwarnhinweise bereits verpflichtend eingeführt wurden. Eine Einheitspackung würde den Wesensgehalt des Markenrechts und damit auch die Interessen der Verbraucher verletzen. Eine Marke dient nämlich auch als Herkunftshinweis und ist somit ein unverzichtbares Element zur Wahrung der Entscheidungs- und Wahlfreiheit der Bürger. Die Einführung von Einheitspackungen für Zigaretten wäre eine massive Entmündigung der Bürger. Stichhaltige wissenschaftliche Nachweise, dass Tabakverpackungen und Produktmerkmale von Tabakerzeugnissen das Raucherverhalten von Verbrauchern beeinflussen/fördern, existieren nicht. Über die Einführung von neutralen Verpackungen konzentriert sich der Wettbewerb verstärkt auf das Preis-Marketing. Sinkende Preise wären die Konsequenz. Dies ist in jeder Hinsicht (Jugend- und Gesundheitsschutz, Steuereinnahmen...) kontraproduktiv und bedroht die Existenz des reinnationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Durch die Umsetzung von neutralen Verpackungen wird Produktfälschern die Arbeit erleichtert und das Problem des Schmuggels weiter verschärft. Dies bedroht die Existenz des rein nationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Die Kommission selbst hat im Rahmen der Tabak-Produkt-Richtlinie die Höchstgehalte an Teer, Nikotin und Kohlenmonoxid begrenzt. Eine Darstellung, dass Verbraucher aufgrund der niedrigeren Höchstgehalte den Konsum der Produkte als weniger riskant für ihre Gesundheit einstufen könnten, ist daher absurd.

Dies ist in jeder Hinsicht (Jugend- und Gesundheitsschutz, Steuereinnahmen...) kontraproduktiv und bedroht die Existenz des rein nationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Durch die Umsetzung von neutralen Verpackungen wird Produktfälschern die Arbeit erleichtert und das Problem des Schmuggels weiter verschärft. Dies bedroht die Existenz des rein nationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Die Kommission selbst hat im Rahmen der Tabak-Produkt-Richtlinie die Höchstgehalte an Teer, Nikotin und Kohlenmonoxid begrenzt. Eine Darstellung, dass Verbraucher aufgrund der niedrigeren Höchstgehalte den Konsum der Produkte als weniger riskant für ihre Gesundheit einstufen könnten, ist daher absurd.

regulation of ingredients

Die Verbreitung des Rauchens in Ländern wie Großbritannien und Irland, in denen vorwiegend Zigaretten ohne Zusatzstoffe verkauft werden (Produkte des Virginia-Typs), ist nicht geringer als die Verbreitung in Ländern, in denen vorwiegend Zigaretten mit Zusatzstoffen (American-Blend-Produkte) verkauft werden. Wettbewerbsrechtliche Auswirkungen einer einseitigen Regulierung von Produkten mit Zusatzstoffen werden nicht thematisiert. Die Frage nach der Wirkung auf das Preisgefüge in den EU 27 Märkten sowie Effekte auf den illegalen Handel mit Tabakerzeugnissen werden nicht thematisiert.

Die Problemdarstellung ist keine sachgerechte, an wissenschaftlichen Prüfstrategien und Standards orientierte und am Maßstab der Verhältnismäßigkeit ausgerichtete Diskussionsgrundlage. Die Darstellung, dass in einer Vielzahl von Mitgliedstaaten der Vertrieb von Tabakautomaten verboten ist, ist keine Problembeschreibung. Die Problembeschreibung trifft nicht zu. In 15 Mitgliedstaaten der EU 27 dürfen Tabakwaren über Automaten abgegeben werden. Dieser folgt i.d.R. unter strengen gesetzlichen Auflagen der nationalen Regierungen. Der Problembeschreibung stimme ich nicht zu. Die Bereiche „Verkauf von Tabakwaren über Zigarettenautomaten“ und „Mindestaltersgrenzen für den Bezug von Tabakwaren“ sind Themen, die eindeutig in den Zuständigkeitsbereich der Mitgliedstaaten fallen. Die Problembeschreibung „Zigarettenautomat“ ist überflüssig, da die Kommission selbst bereits bei ihrem Bericht zur Umsetzung der Ratsempfehlung 2003/54/E Caus November 2009 festgehalten hat: –Insgesamt ist die Umsetzung der Empfehlung zufrieden stellend. –Dies betrifft insbesondere die Verpflichtung, das Mindestalter für den Kauf von Tabakwaren zu überprüfen sowie die Durchführung von Maßnahmen zur Beschränkung der Verwendung von Automaten durch in der jährige Personen.

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

No change

additional comments

The knowledge of how harmful tobacco would be is already of a high level, also on the basis of the existing warnings; no value added by the increase of information; negative impact on the fulfilments of sector's operators and of tobacco retailers; full aversion to plain packaging because of the confusion on manufacturers identification brands, with a consequent proliferation of illegal trade of counterfeited as well as smuggled products.

explanations

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

There is no evidence of the correlation between display ban and consumption bent. In other experiences – see Canada – important loss have been recorded for the tobacco retailers: structural reorganization of the shop, higher management costs and important reduction of the profitability with the consequent risk of giving up the business. Also increasing of illegal products sale (counterfeited and smuggled).

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

explanations

Es gibt keinen überzeugenden Beleg dafür, dass ein Warnhinweis umso wirksamer ist, je größer sein Format. Es existiert bereits ein allgemeines Bewusstsein der Risiken des Rauchens. Ein Hinzufügen von Bildern auf den Warnhinweisen erhöht dieses Bewusstsein nicht—die Bilder wirken lediglich überwiegend abstoßend ohne eine zusätzliche Information zu bieten. Es wird pauschal unterstellt, dass die Einführung von Bildwarnhinweisen auf das Rauchverhalten der Verbraucher einwirkt. Dafür werden allerdings keine Nachweise aus den Ländern zugeliefert, in denen Bildwarnhinweise bereits verpflichtend eingeführt wurden. Eine Einheitspackung würde den Wesensgehalt des Markenrechts und damit auch die Interessen der Verbraucher verletzen. Eine Marke dient nämlich auch als Herkunftshinweis und ist somit ein unverzichtbares Element zur Wahrung der Entscheidungs- und Wahlfreiheit der Bürger. Die Einführung von Einheitspackungen für Zigaretten wäre eine massive Entmündigung der Bürger. Stichhaltige wissenschaftliche Nachweise, dass Tabakverpackungen und Produktmerkmale von Tabakerzeugnissen das Rauchverhalten von Verbrauchern beeinflussen/fördern, existieren nicht. Über die Einführung von neutralen Verpackungen konzentriert sich der Wettbewerb verstärkt auf das Preis-Marketing. Sinkende Preise wären die Konsequenz. Dies ist in jeder Hinsicht (Jugend- und Gesundheitsschutz, Steuereinnahmen...) kontraproduktiv und bedroht die Existenz des rein nationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Durch die Umsetzung von neutralen Verpackungen wird Produktfälschern die Arbeit erleichtert und das Problem des Schmuggels weiter verschärft. Dies bedroht die Existenz des rein nationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Die Kommission selbst hat im Rahmen der Tabak-Produkt-Richtlinie die Höchstgehalte an Teer, Nikotin und Kohlenmonoxid begrenzt. Eine Darstellung, dass Verbraucher aufgrund der niedrigeren Höchstgehalte den Konsum der Produkte als weniger riskant für ihre Gesundheit einstufen könnten, ist daher absurd.

gar ein Mandat der Kommission zum Eingriff in bestehende nationale Abläufe wird nicht ersichtlich.

Durch die Umsetzung von neutralen Verpackungen wird Produktfälschern die Arbeit erleichtert und das Problem des Schmuggels weiter verschärft. Dies bedroht die Existenz des rein nationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Die Kommission selbst hat im Rahmen der Tabak-Produkt-Richtlinie die Höchstgehalte an Teer, Nikotin und Kohlenmonoxid begrenzt. Eine Darstellung, dass Verbraucher aufgrund der niedrigeren Höchstgehalte den Konsum der Produkte als weniger riskant für ihre Gesundheit einstufen könnten, ist daher absurd.

regulation of ingredients

explanations

problem definition

„Verkauf von Tabakwaren über Zigarettenautomaten“ und „Mindestaltersgrenzen für den Bezug von Tabakwaren“ sind Themen, die eindeutig in den Zuständigkeitsbereich der Mitgliedstaaten fallen. Die Problembeschreibung „Zigarettenautomat“ ist überflüssig, da die Kommission selbst bereits bei ihrem Bericht zur Umsetzung der Ratsempfehlung 2003/54/E Caus November 2009 festgehalten hat: –Insgesamt ist die Umsetzung der Empfehlung zufrieden stellend. –Dies betrifft insbesondere die Verpflichtung, das Mindestalter für den Kauf von Tabakwaren zu überprüfen sowie die Durchführung von Maßnahmen zur Beschränkung der Verwendung von Automaten durch in der jährige Personen.

The knowledge of how harmful tobacco would be is already of a high level, also on the basis of the existing warnings; no value added by the increase of information; negative impact on the fulfilments of sector's operators and of tobacco retailers; full aversion to plain packaging because of the confusion on manufacturers identification brands, with a consequent proliferation of illegal trade of counterfeited as well as smuggled products.

problem definition

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

additional comments

questions on reporting

Yes

which option

Establish a common compulsory reporting format

explanations

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

Es gibt keinen überzeugenden Beleg dafür, dass ein Warnhinweis umso wirksamer ist, je größer sein Format. Es existiert bereits ein allgemeines Bewusstsein der Risiken des Rauchens. Ein Hinzufügen von Bildern auf den Warnhinweisen erhöht dieses Bewusstsein nicht—die Bilder wirken lediglich überwiegend abstoßend ohne eine zusätzliche Information zu bieten. Es wird pauschal unterstellt, dass die Einführung von Bildwarnhinweisen auf das Rauchverhalten der Verbraucher einwirkt. Dafür werden allerdings keine Nachweise aus den Ländern zugeliefert, in denen Bildwarnhinweise bereits verpflichtend eingeführt wurden. Eine Einheitspackung würde den Wesensgehalt des Markenrechts und damit auch die Interessen der Verbraucher verletzen. Eine Marke dient nämlich auch als Herkunftshinweis und ist somit ein unverzichtbares Element zur Wahrung der Entscheidungs- und Wahlfreiheit der Bürger. Die Einführung von Einheitspackungen für Zigaretten wäre eine massive Entmündigung der Bürger. Stichhaltige wissenschaftliche Nachweise, dass Tabakverpackungen und Produktmerkmale von Tabakerzeugnissen das Rauchverhalten von Verbrauchern beeinflussen/fördern, existieren nicht. Über die Einführung von neutralen Verpackungen konzentriert sich der Wettbewerb verstärkt auf das Preis-Marketing. Sinkende Preise wären die Konsequenz. Dies ist in jeder Hinsicht (Jugend- und Gesundheitsschutz, Steuereinnahmen...) kontraproduktiv und bedroht die Existenz des reinnationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Durch die Umsetzung von neutralen Verpackungen wird Produktfälschern die Arbeit erleichtert und das Problem des Schmuggels weiter verschärft. Dies bedroht die Existenz des rein nationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Die Kommission selbst hat im Rahmen der Tabak-Produkt-Richtlinie die Höchstgehalte an Teer, Nikotin und Kohlenmonoxid begrenzt. Eine Darstellung, dass Verbraucher aufgrund der niedrigeren Höchstgehalte den Konsum der Produkte als weniger riskant für ihre Gesundheit einstufen könnten, ist daher absurd.

No scientific evidence concerning the risks related to smokeless tobacco products consumption.

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

additional comments

questions on reporting

Yes

which option

Establish a common compulsory reporting format

explanations

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

Es gibt keinen überzeugenden Beleg dafür, dass ein Warnhinweis umso wirksamer ist, je größer sein Format. Es existiert bereits ein allgemeines Bewusstsein der Risiken des Rauchens. Ein Hinzufügen von Bildern auf den Warnhinweisen erhöht dieses Bewusstsein nicht—die Bilder wirken lediglich überwiegend abstoßend ohne eine zusätzliche Information zu bieten. Es wird pauschal unterstellt, dass die Einführung von Bildwarnhinweisen auf das Rauchverhalten der Verbraucher einwirkt. Dafür werden allerdings keine Nachweise aus den Ländern zugeliefert, in denen Bildwarnhinweise bereits verpflichtend eingeführt wurden. Eine Einheitspackung würde den Wesensgehalt des Markenrechts und damit auch die Interessen der Verbraucher verletzen. Eine Marke dient nämlich auch als Herkunftshinweis und ist somit ein unverzichtbares Element zur Wahrung der Entscheidungs- und Wahlfreiheit der Bürger. Die Einführung von Einheitspackungen für Zigaretten wäre eine massive Entmündigung der Bürger. Stichhaltige wissenschaftliche Nachweise, dass Tabakverpackungen und Produktmerkmale von Tabakerzeugnissen das Raucherverhalten von Verbrauchern beeinflussen/fördern, existieren nicht. Über die Einführung von neutralen Verpackungen konzentriert sich der Wettbewerb verstärkt auf das Preis-Marketing. Sinkende Preise wären die Konsequenz. Dies ist in jeder Hinsicht (Jugend- und Gesundheitsschutz, Steuereinnahmen...) kontraproduktiv und bedroht die Existenz des reinnationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Durch die Umsetzung von neutralen Verpackungen wird Produktfälschern die Arbeit erleichtert und das Problem des Schmuggels weiter verschärft. Dies bedroht die Existenz des rein nationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Die Kommission selbst hat im Rahmen der Tabak-Produkt-Richtlinie die Höchstgehalte an Teer, Nikotin und Kohlenmonoxid begrenzt. Eine Darstellung, dass Verbraucher aufgrund der niedrigeren Höchstgehalte den Konsum der Produkte als weniger riskant für ihre Gesundheit einstufen könnten, ist daher absurd.

No

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

additional comments

questions on reporting*problem definition

Yes

explanations

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

Es gibt keinen überzeugenden Beleg dafür, dass ein Warnhinweis umso wirksamer ist, je größer sein Format. Es existiert bereits ein allgemeines Bewusstsein der Risiken des Rauchens. Ein Hinzufügen von Bildern auf den Warnhinweisen erhöht dieses Bewusstsein nicht—die Bilder wirken lediglich überwiegend abstoßend ohne eine zusätzliche Information zu bieten. Es wird pauschal unterstellt, dass die Einführung von Bildwarnhinweisen auf das Rauchverhalten der Verbraucher einwirkt. Dafür werden allerdings keine Nachweise aus den Ländern zugeliefert, in denen Bildwarnhinweise bereits verpflichtend eingeführt wurden. Eine Einheitspackung würde den Wesensgehalt des Markenrechts und damit auch die Interessen der Verbraucher verletzen. Eine Marke dient nämlich auch als Herkunftshinweis und ist somit ein unverzichtbares Element zur Wahrung der Entscheidungs- und Wahlfreiheit der Bürger. Die Einführung von Einheitspackungen für Zigaretten wäre eine massive Entmündigung der Bürger. Stichhaltige wissenschaftliche Nachweise, dass Tabakverpackungen und Produktmerkmale von Tabakerzeugnissen das Raucherverhalten von Verbrauchern beeinflussen/fördern, existieren nicht. Über die Einführung von neutralen Verpackungen konzentriert sich der Wettbewerb verstärkt auf das Preis-Marketing. Sinkende Preise wären die Konsequenz. Dies ist in jeder Hinsicht (Jugend- und Gesundheitsschutz, Steuereinnahmen...) kontraproduktiv und bedroht die Existenz des reinnationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Durch die Umsetzung von neutralen Verpackungen wird Produktfälschern die Arbeit erleichtert und das Problem des Schmuggels weiter verschärft. Dies bedroht die Existenz des rein nationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Die Kommission selbst hat im Rahmen der Tabak-Produkt-Richtlinie die Höchstgehalte an Teer, Nikotin und Kohlenmonoxid begrenzt. Eine Darstellung, dass Verbraucher aufgrund der niedrigeren Höchstgehalte den Konsum der Produkte als weniger riskant für ihre Gesundheit einstufen könnten, ist daher absurd.

Die Verbreitung des Rauchens in Ländern wie Großbritannien und Irland, in denen vorwiegend Zigaretten ohne Zusatzstoffe verkauft werden (Produkte des Virginia-Typs), ist nicht geringer als die Verbreitung in Ländern, in denen vorwiegend Zigaretten mit Zusatzstoffen (American-Blend-Produkte) verkauft werden. Die Darstellung, dass in einer Vielzahl von Mitgliedstaaten der Vertrieb von Tabakautomaten verboten ist, ist keine Problembeschreibung. Die Problembeschreibung trifft nicht zu. In 15 Mitgliedstaaten der EU 27 dürfen Tabakwaren über Automaten abgegeben werden. Dieser folgt i.d.R. unter strengen gesetzlichen Auflagen der nationalen Regierungen. Der Problembeschreibung stimme ich nicht zu. Die Bereiche „Verkauf von Tabakwaren über Zigarettenautomaten“ und „Mindestaltersgrenzen für den Bezug von Tabakwaren“ sind Themen, die eindeutig in den Zuständigkeitsbereich der Mitgliedstaaten fallen. Die Problembeschreibung „Zigarettenautomat“ ist überflüssig, da die Kommission selbst bereits bei ihrem Bericht zur Umsetzung der Ratsempfehlung 2003/54/E Caus November 2009 festgehalten hat: –Insgesamt ist die Umsetzung der Empfehlung zufrieden stellend. –Dies betrifft insbesondere die Verpflichtung, das Mindestalter für den Kauf von Tabakwaren zu überprüfen sowie die Durchführung von Maßnahmen zur Beschränkung der Verwendung von Automaten durch in der jährige Personen.

„Verkauf von Tabakwaren über Zigarettenautomaten“ und „Mindestaltersgrenzen für den Bezug von Tabakwaren“ sind Themen, die eindeutig in den Zuständigkeitsbereich der Mitgliedstaaten fallen. Die Problembeschreibung „Zigarettenautomat“ ist überflüssig, da die Kommission selbst bereits bei ihrem Bericht zur Umsetzung der Ratsempfehlung 2003/54/E Caus November 2009 festgehalten hat: –Insgesamt ist die Umsetzung der Empfehlung zufrieden stellend. –Dies betrifft insbesondere die Verpflichtung, das Mindestalter für den Kauf von Tabakwaren zu überprüfen sowie die Durchführung von Maßnahmen zur Beschränkung der Verwendung von Automaten durch in der jährige Personen.

problem definition

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

additional comments

questions on reporting

Yes

which option

explanations

It is not possible to prove in advance which is the possible impact of an ingredient in terms of toxicity; targeting lists in advance, positively or negatively, would be in contrast with this statement; risk of product standardisation with a consequent reduction of the principle of free market and the risk of increase of counterfeited products.

Yes

Controlled supply and access

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

Sale to be carried out only within a network of specialized shops, provided with an appropriate license, which main activity is tobacco sale.

Einheitspackungen behindern meine Auswahlmöglichkeiten durch Wegfall optischer Differenzierung - "Schockbilder und größere Warnhinweise klären nicht zusätzlich auf sondern diskriminieren lediglich den Tabak- konsumenten und die Händler. Produkt-Fälschungen und illegaler Vertrieb werden massiv gefördert. Verbote oder Beschränkung der Präsentation von Tabakwaren sind nicht nur unsinnig sondern beschränken massiv die Rechte von Verbrauchern und Handel - Ich möchte die Ware , die ich kaufe vorher sehen und frei auswählen können - der Händler kann seine Waren nur verkaufen, wenn er seinen Kunden sein Angebot präsentieren kann . Wobleiben hierbei spezialierte Fachgeschäfte? Deren Existenz würde grundsätzlich in Frage gestellt bzw.vernichtet.

comments

Der Konsum rauchloser Tabakerzeugnisse durch erwachsene und aufgeklärte Personen gefährdet weder die Gesundheit Dritter noch schränkt der Konsum dieser Produkte andere Personen in ihren Lebensgewohnheiten ein. Der Konsum dieser Produkte liegt in der Eigenverantwortung des Einzelnen. Das Bewerben und Verkaufen dieser Produkte muss daher möglich sein. Das EU-weite Verbot von Snus (Ausnahme Schweden) stellt eine massive Entmündigung der Bürger dar. Denn die erwachsenen Verbraucher haben das Recht, auch bei Genussmitteln mit Gesundheitsrisiken die Wahl zu haben und eigenverantwortliche Entscheidungen zu treffen. Aus der Problemdarstellung der Kommission lässt sich keine wissenschaftlich fundierte Grundlage ableiten, die ein EU-weites Verbot von Snus (Ausnahme Schweden) oder anderer rauchloser Produkte rechtfertigen könnte. Beispielsweise vermissen wir in der Problemdarstellung wissenschaftlich fundierte Wirkungsanalysen aus

Ländern, in denen Snus oder andere rauchlose Tabakerzeugnisse konsumiert werden.

Lifting the ban on snus

questions consumer

No

Es gibt keinen überzeugenden Beleg dafür, dass ein Warnhinweis umso wirksamer ist, je größer sein Format. Es existiert bereits ein allgemeines Bewusstsein der Risiken des Rauchens. Ein Hinzufügen von Bildern auf den Warnhinweisen erhöht dieses Bewusstsein nicht—die Bilder wirken lediglich überwiegend abstoßend ohne eine zusätzliche Information zu bieten. Es wird pauschal unterstellt, dass die Einführung von Bildwarnhinweisen auf das Rauchverhalten der Verbraucher einwirkt. Dafür werden allerdings keine Nachweise aus den Ländern zugeliefert, in denen Bildwarnhinweise bereits verpflichtend eingeführt wurden. Eine Einheitspackung würde den Wesensgehalt des Markenrechts und damit auch die Interessen der Verbraucher verletzen. Eine Marke dient nämlich auch als Herkunftshinweis und ist somit ein unverzichtbares Element zur Wahrung der Entscheidungs- und Wahlfreiheit der Bürger. Die Einführung von Einheitspackungen für Zigaretten wäre eine massive Entmündigung der Bürger. Stichhaltige wissenschaftliche Nachweise, dass Tabakverpackungen und Produktmerkmale von Tabakerzeugnissen das Raucherverhalten von Verbrauchern beeinflussen/fördern, existieren nicht. Über die Einführung von neutralen Verpackungen konzentriert sich der Wettbewerb verstärkt auf das Preis-Marketing. Sinkende Preise wären die Konsequenz. Dies ist in jeder Hinsicht (Jugend- und Gesundheitsschutz, Steuereinnahmen...) kontraproduktiv und bedroht die Existenz des reinnationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Durch die Umsetzung von neutralen Verpackungen wird Produktfälschern die Arbeit erleichtert und das Problem des Schmuggels weiter verschärft. Dies bedroht die Existenz des rein nationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Die Kommission selbst hat im Rahmen der Tabak-Produkt-Richtlinie die Höchstgehalte an Teer, Nikotin und Kohlenmonoxid begrenzt. Eine Darstellung, dass Verbraucher aufgrund der niedrigeren Höchstgehalte den Konsum der Produkte als weniger riskant für ihre Gesundheit einstufen könnten, ist daher absurd.

wissenschaftlichen Bewertung (Unbedenklichkeitsprüfung) unterzogen wurden.

questions consumer

No

Es gibt keinen überzeugenden Beleg dafür, dass ein Warnhinweis umso wirksamer ist, je größer sein Format. Es existiert bereits ein allgemeines Bewusstsein der Risiken des Rauchens. Ein Hinzufügen von Bildern auf den Warnhinweisen erhöht dieses Bewusstsein nicht—die Bilder wirken lediglich überwiegend abstoßend ohne eine zusätzliche Information zu bieten. Es wird pauschal unterstellt, dass die Einführung von Bildwarnhinweisen auf das Rauchverhalten der Verbraucher einwirkt. Dafür werden allerdings keine Nachweise aus den Ländern zugeliefert, in denen Bildwarnhinweise bereits verpflichtend eingeführt wurden. Eine Einheitspackung würde den Wesensgehalt des Markenrechts und damit auch die Interessen der Verbraucher verletzen. Eine Marke dient nämlich auch als Herkunftshinweis und ist somit ein unverzichtbares Element zur Wahrung der Entscheidungs- und Wahlfreiheit der Bürger. Die Einführung von Einheitspackungen für Zigaretten wäre eine massive Entmündigung der Bürger. Stichhaltige wissenschaftliche Nachweise, dass Tabakverpackungen und Produktmerkmale von Tabakerzeugnissen das Raucherverhalten von Verbrauchern beeinflussen/fördern, existieren nicht. Über die Einführung von neutralen Verpackungen konzentriert sich der Wettbewerb verstärkt auf das Preis-Marketing. Sinkende Preise wären die Konsequenz. Dies ist in jeder Hinsicht (Jugend- und Gesundheitsschutz, Steuereinnahmen...) kontraproduktiv und bedroht die Existenz des reinnationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Durch die Umsetzung von neutralen Verpackungen wird Produktfälschern die Arbeit erleichtert und das Problem des Schmuggels weiter verschärft.

Dies bedroht die Existenz des rein nationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Die Kommission selbst hat im Rahmen der Tabak-Produkt-Richtlinie die Höchstgehalte an Teer, Nikotin und Kohlenmonoxid begrenzt. Eine Darstellung, dass Verbraucher aufgrund der niedrigeren Höchstgehalte den Konsum der Produkte als weniger riskant für ihre Gesundheit einstufen könnten, ist daher absurd.

vermissen wir in der Problemdarstellung wissenschaftlich fundierte Wirkungsanalysen aus Ländern, in denen Snus oder andere rauchlose Tabakerzeugnisse konsumiert werden.

questions consumer

problem definition

Es gibt keinen überzeugenden Beleg dafür, dass ein Warnhinweis umso wirksamer ist, je größer sein Format. Es existiert bereits ein allgemeines Bewusstsein der Risiken des Rauchens. Ein Hinzufügen von Bildern auf den Warnhinweisen erhöht dieses Bewusstsein nicht—die Bilder wirken lediglich überwiegend abstoßend ohne eine zusätzliche Information zu bieten. Es wird pauschal unterstellt, dass die Einführung von Bildwarnhinweisen auf das Rauchverhalten der Verbraucher einwirkt. Dafür werden allerdings keine Nachweise aus den Ländern zugeliefert, in denen Bildwarnhinweise bereits verpflichtend eingeführt wurden. Eine Einheitspackung würde den Wesensgehalt des Markenrechts und damit auch die Interessen der Verbraucher verletzen. Eine Marke dient nämlich auch als Herkunftshinweis und ist somit ein unverzichtbares Element zur Wahrung der Entscheidungs- und Wahlfreiheit der Bürger. Die Einführung von Einheitspackungen für Zigaretten wäre eine massive Entmündigung der Bürger. Stichhaltige wissenschaftliche Nachweise, dass Tabakverpackungen und Produktmerkmale von Tabakerzeugnissen das Raucherverhalten von Verbrauchern beeinflussen/fördern, existieren nicht. Über die Einführung von neutralen Verpackungen konzentriert sich der Wettbewerb verstärkt auf das Preis-Marketing. Sinkende Preise wären die Konsequenz. Dies ist in jeder Hinsicht (Jugend- und Gesundheitsschutz, Steuereinnahmen...) kontraproduktiv und bedroht die Existenz des reinnationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Durch die Umsetzung von neutralen Verpackungen wird Produktfälschern die Arbeit erleichtert und das Problem des Schmuggels weiter verschärft. Dies bedroht die Existenz des rein nationaltätigen Groß- und Einzelhandels in Deutschland. Die Kommission selbst hat im Rahmen der Tabak-Produkt-Richtlinie die Höchstgehalte an Teer, Nikotin und Kohlenmonoxid begrenzt. Eine Darstellung, dass Verbraucher aufgrund der niedrigeren Höchstgehalte den Konsum der Produkte als weniger riskant für ihre Gesundheit einstufen könnten, ist daher absurd.

einer Option, die der Wirtschaft zusätzliche dauerhafte Kosten (jährliche Gebühr) auferlegen würde. Die Mitgliedstaaten selbst sind gefordert, zusammen mit der Wirtschaft einen pragmatischen Weg zu diskutieren und umzusetzen. Ein notwendiger Handlungsbedarf oder gar ein Mandat der Kommission zum Eingriff in bestehende nationale Abläufe wird nicht ersichtlich.

which supply and access

Age verification of buyers and other legal conditions to be set for cross-border retail sale;
Access to vending machines to be restricted to adults

additional option

problem definition

explanations

No scientific evidence proving that bigger warnings determine a better knowledge of the suggested messages; no scientific evidence on the relation between the use of a particular graphic and the impact on consumers.

which option

questions on reporting

Yes

which option

regulation of ingredients

explanations
